Republicans Sensitive About Having Democrats Offer Bills on Subject

BULLETIN

Washington (AP)—Hearings on three bills by Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, to establish more extensive employment facilities by the federal government, were opened today by the senate commerce committee. A sub-committee will begin the hearings within a few days.

Washington (CPA)—Unemployment figures continue to be the football of politics. Legislation to get the facts is delayed by the discussion of partisan advantage and disadvantage.

Secretary Davis' admission as head of the department of labor that 3,000,000 are jobless is important only as a morsel of political debate. Nobody knows whether three million is high or low. There was a time during the Harding administration when the unemployment figures were supposed to have gone as high as 5,000,000. This was what prompted the characterization of "profitless prosperity" in later years, for the unemployment curve has been up even during some of the Coolidge years. The phenomenon of a high unemployment figure at a time of booming prosperity has never been explained. President Coolidge appointed a commission to investigate it and Herbert Hoover, as secretary of commerce, was its chairman. The report was made in May of last year. It threw light on the changes in economic conditions and pointed to the importance of economic balance and what was termed "technological" unemployment, or the turning out of skilled and unskilled labor due to introduction of labor-saving devices and the mechanization of industry.

BUYING POWER CUT

In other words, the stock market decline, which either forebushadows or reflects a business depression, has been part of a series of circumstances that have brought about unemployment. The gross figures show relatively little change by percentage but it is evident now that the greatest unemployment is in some of the manufacturing centers. Also the effects of unemployment now are being noted in the diminished purchasing power of trade areas.

Curiously enough, this phase of business recovery is regarded as something that can only follow a readjustment of basic industries and very little attention is being given relatively speaking, to the fundamental problems of labor saving devices who are unemployed in getting jobs. This is one of the primary purposes of the bills introduced by Senator Wagner of New York. But the New York senator is a Democrat and every time he starts to get support for his bills by debate, the administration grows sensitive about the political aspects of it.

In politics unemployment is never conceded to be anything but a passing affair and there is always a good deal of questioning of what are the exact figures. Some of the state governments have an excellent means of checking up on unemployment data but the federal government alone is in a position to make surveys. And if the survey is unfavorable to the party in power, there is a tendency to juggle the figures and camouflage their importance. What Senator Wagner is trying to do is to get the machinery started for fact finding so that politics cannot enter into the publication of the truth about unemployment at any time.

It might be the irony of fate to have such figures plague a Democratic administration, too, some day but for the moment the fact is that Republicans hesitate to talk about unemployment for fear of impressing the voters in the forthcoming congressional elections that maybe the Republican party hasn't any more influence with the gods of economic welfare than the Democrats.

WRIGHT TESTIMONY SUPPORTED IN COURT

Witnesses Describe Confiscation of Alcohol from Wrecked Car

Madison (AP)—Substantiation of testimony given by Lyall T. Wright, deposed sheriff of Juneau, involving Clinton G. Price, former assemblyman and suspended district attorney, was given by four witnesses in Price's trial here today.

The most damaging, which could not be shaken on cross examination, was by James Hickey, Madison filling station operator. He described the confiscation of alcohol from a wrecked automobile in which Wright said he received $1,200 from the owner, of which $600 went to Price, $50 to Price's stenographer, and the rest to a federal agent, who now is dead.

"Wright told me he received from the owner of the wrecked automobile," Hickey said, "but that there was only enough money to take care of the 'higher ups,' the district attorney."

Wright's brother-in-law, Dayton Woodard, Pardeeville, also spoke of the incident, and said Wright showed him the money from the automobile owner.

"I would be a nice haul if I didn't have to split with Price," Woodard quoted Wright as saying.

William A. Kastner, Mauston garage owner, who hauled the wrecked automobile to his garage, said Wright told him he "had to care of other parties." Hickey, in his testimony, also said he saw the owner of the wrecked automobile leave Price's office with the district attorney.

U-BOAT DRIVE DREW AMERICA INTO CONFLICT

Death Brought on by Weakened Heart After Short Bronchitis Attack

Ebenhausen, Bavaria (AP)—Admiral Alfred von Tirpitz, lord high admiral of the German navy during the war and father of Germany's submarine warfare, died in a sanatorium here at 2:30 a. m. today after a brief attack of bronchitis. He would have been 81 years old March 19.

The aged gray-bearded warrior, who sometimes was termed a German Odin, or war God of the seas, was in good health until early in February when the bronchial ailment took him down. He seemed to recover but when his heart action became weak he was brought Feb. 10 from his home at Feldafing, on the banks of Starnberger lake, to this place, a suburb of Munich.

At Feldafing he has been leading the life of a retired soldier, occasionally lifting his voice in defense of the German republic. In 1925, while a deputy in the Reichstag, he went to Hanover and persuaded Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg to accept candidacy for the German presidency.

Two years ago he wearied of parliamentary life and declined renomination for the Reichstag in a rather bitter letter to the German Nationalist party in which he declared the party was making too many compromises. The party then made him its honorary chairman, but he played no political role, merely writing articles occasionally on topics of the day.

From the time he was 20 until he broke with the kaiser in 1916, Admiral von Tirpitz's life was one of most intimate association with the German navy.

As the highest ranking official of the former Imperial German navy, Grand Admiral von Tirpitz cherished two dreams.

One of them a gigantic force for the empire, became a reality; the other, the institution of a ruthless submarine campaign as a means to win the war, failed.

While the latter played havoc with the shipping of neutrals and belligerents alike and exacted an undetermined toll of lives, it not only failed

Catholic Denies Religion Involved In Prohibition

Washington (AP)—Patrick H. Callahan, a prominent Catholic layman from Louisville, Ky., today took up defense of the eighteenth amendment before the house judiciary committee with a challenge to any one who sought to align the prohibition movement with Protestantism alone.

He told the charges had been made and still was heard that prohibition was Protestantism and purposely planned to interfere with Catholic services by "ultimately making it impossible to offer up the sacraments of the mass. This he denied as untrue and said that as a Catholic layman he held the same influence as other leaders in the dry movement.

BRITISH EARL, TAR DESERTED BY SHIP, IS ILLEGALLY IN U. S.

Los Angeles (AP)—The earl of Rosslyn, British nobleman, soldier and author, was in the United States today with his status that of a sailor left in a foreign land when he fails to return to ship before sailing time.

The earl did not enlist as a seaman aboard the motorship Penrith Castle for the one shilling a month the ship's master agreed to pay him, he admitted to immigration authorities last night. Then enlistment preceded by a few hours the docking of the vessel from London at San Pedro.

The Penrith Castle sailed for Australia while the earl was at luncheon with his friends, Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, at the film stars' home. As soon as the ship sailed E. Ross, 63, as the earl was listed in his records, was in the United States illegally.

The earl, who declared in his biography that he broke the bank at Monte Carlo twice and then lost $5,000,000 gambling, explained to Director Walter E. Carr of the immigration service that he neglected to have his passport vised, so he enlisted as a seaman because he wanted to come ashore. He requested that he be given a waiver of a passport to catch a ship for New Zealand. Carr telegraphed to Washington for a waiver.

Winona, Minn. (AP)—Correcting what he described as erroneous reports, Morris J. Owen, attorney for the Delta Fish and Fur Farms, Inc., today issued a statement concerning today issued a statement concerning the action of Attorney General John W. Reynolds, Wisconsin, in entering the dispute over the company's lands in Trempealeau marsh.

Mr. Owen, while emphasizing that the firm has no objection to the state's entry on the side of hunters and trappers who seek to open the land to the public, said it should be made clear that until the case is settled the public can not enter on company lands. An injunction still is in force forbidding this, he said.

The dispute started last fall when hunters stormed the company's marshland to shoot ducks. Later the injunction was obtained to halt trespassers.

The judge was irritated, but not angry, he wrote a police note asking Bichita to call and explain. Bichita, however, did not present when Justice Owens called to see last night. Bichita, in a recent paper was issued, providing for his incarceration.

FRENCH BACK TO CONTINUE PARLEY WORK

Statement by Stimson on Reduction Chief Topic at Conference

Paris (AP)—The French delegation to the naval conference, headed by Aristide Briand, foreign minister in the new cabinet of Andre Tardieu, left here at noon today for London. Their chief, M. Tardieu, received an ovation at the railroad station as he bade them farewell.

M. Tardieu, conscious of the gravity of the floods in central and southern France, postponed his own return to London so that he could visit the devastated areas tomorrow. He probably will not get to the naval conference until Tuesday or Wednesday.

His new ministry received a vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies last night after reading of the ministerial declaration by a majority of 33. The count was 216 to 263.

London (AP)—British naval estimates for 1930, made public today, show a net total of $1,739,000 against $5,865,000 for 1929, or a reduction of $4,126,000. The British pound has a value of about $4.86.

A statement by Secretary Henry L. Stimson that the United States is willing to reduce its armament by more than 200,000 tons—if the fleets of the other naval powers are reduced also—was the principal topic of discussion in naval conference circles today.

In a surprise movement, Colonel Stimson said:

"There seems to be an impression that the work of the American delegation at this conference is likely to result in an increase instead of a reduction in the tonnage of the navies of the world. The surest way to answer that is to give such results as seem to be within reach."

PLAN WINS APPROVAL

"A plan which in its essentials appears to be acceptable to American and Great Britain provides for net reduction in tonnage of the American fleet in capital ships, cruisers, destroyers and submarines built, building, or appropriated for, of over 200,000 tons, and an even larger reduction of the part of the British fleet."

"If the vessels authorized but not commenced were included in existing fleets, the amount of reduction would be much greater. Of course, these reductions are contingent upon some reductions being made in the fleets of the other powers."

Secretary Stimson refused to divulge the figures which he and the American delegation had used in arriving at their estimate of 200,000 tons reduction, but among the scheduled here today there was one with the suggestion of authorizing the construction of 100,000 tons of capital ships, 400,000 tons of cruisers, 225,000 tons of destroyers, 150,000 tons of submarines, 60,000 tons.

The total is 935,000 tons, a reduction of 200,000 tons.

Colonel Stimson has in mind, according to this set of figures that if the reductions contemplated by Great Britain and the United States are authorized, the American fleet would contain: Battleships, 462,000 tons; cruisers, 225,000 tons; destroyers, 150,000 tons, and submarines, 60,000 tons.

HUMAN TOLL IN FRENCH FLOOD ESTIMATED 400

Toulouse, France (AP)—Latest official estimates of the flood disaster in Southern France today placed the death toll at 400 and the number of people homeless at 1,500,000. The death toll was reported destroyed or on the point of crumbling at Moirax.

TO VISIT AREA

Paris (AP)—President Doumergue will accompany Premier Andre Tardieu tomorrow on a visit to the devastated flood regions. It was announced they expected to return to Paris Monday. President Doumergue this afternoon handed M. Tardieu 20,000 francs (about $500) as his personal contribution to the fund for relief of families of flood victims.

Dismissing the story Senator Grundy said that he had brought to the senate a bill to prohibit the use of the senate office building for the purpose of lobbying.

Stimson Aid Is Killed In 6-Story Fall

Woman Stenographer at London Parley Plunges from Hotel Window

London (AP)—A fall from a sixth floor window of the Mayfair hotel today proved fatal to Mrs. Pearl DeMaret, stenographer to Secretary of State Stimson. Authorities said the fall was accidental.

The last person to see Mrs. DeMaret before she fell was Mrs. Hurley, clerk of the division of current information, with whom she roomed.

Mrs. Fisk said that as she went into the bathroom of the suite Mrs. DeMaret was examining a bouquet of flowers sent her by Mrs. Stimson as a bon voyage gift, the stenographer intending to return to the United States on the steamer President Harding today.

Authorities later examining the room said that marks on the window sill indicated that the unfortunate woman had clutched it in trying to save herself. She was picked up below suffering from a broken hip and internal injuries and taken to St. George's hospital where she died later.

Mrs. DeMaret, who has been Colonel Stimson's stenographer since his first assumed office, planned to go back home for purely personal reasons. The secretary of state had approved the trip, and all arrangements had been made for her sailing.

Mrs. DeMaret is survived by her widower, Seth DeMaret, a government employe in Washington, and an eight-year-old son.

THREE ACCUSED OF PLURAL MARRIAGES

Father and Sons Charged With Wedding Dozen to Live in Ease

Grand Rapids, Mich. (AP)—A 68-year-old father and his two sons were under indictment here today on charges involving nearly a dozen marriages in various parts of the country through which, federal authorities assert, the three men were able to live in ease for eight years.

The indictments, returned by a federal grand jury yesterday charge Michael Cates and his sons, Richard, 21, and Howard, 17, with violations of the Mann act. The arrest of the three came about through the marriage of Richard to Marguerite Park in St. Louis, Mich. Richard, federal authorities allege, previously had married women in Michigan, Kentucky, Arkansas and Milwaukee.

The trio took the girl to Tulsa, Okla., and later brought her to Kalamazoo, Mich., where she was given 70 cents for her fare home. Her complaint resulted in the arrest of the father and sons in Tulsa.

Seven marriages were laid to the father by federal authorities and the indictment listed names of women alleged to have been transported from one state to another at various times during the last 8 years. Some of the wives of the older Cates were said to have obtained divorces.

Louis H. Grettenberger, assistant United States district attorney, said that the men obtained money from women whom they married while driving about the country in an expensive automobile. Their home was given as Junction City, Colo.

"Unemployment Day" Demonstrations in Many Parts of U. S. and Europe

BULLETIN

New York (AP)—Disobeying orders against a parade, Communists engaging in an unemployed demonstration at Union Square today started forming their ranks in a parade shortly after 2 o'clock. Commissioner Whalen sent in a riot call. Police charged the forming parade swinging night sticks and blackjacks. The police estimated at 40,000, immediately was in an uproar and started running in all directions from the square.

Washington (AP)—Police used tear gas today to disperse a gathering of "unemployment day" demonstrators in the White House.

In Atlantic, a patrol wagon backed with police reserves arrived, hastening dispersal of the crowd. Throughout the demonstration, the president remained at work in his office a hundred yards away.

Several were injured in a struggle with the police when Bert Lawrence, leader of the demonstrators, climbed to the top of the iron fence surrounding the White House grounds from Pennsylvania avenue and attempted to speak.

The police construed this attempt as a violation of President Hoover's instructions which said that there was to be no interference so long as the demonstration confined itself to the public street.

Two policemen, one in plain clothes, forced Lawrence from the fence back to the sidewalk.

YOUTH STARTS CLASH

A youth of about 15 years wearing a flaming red sweater grasped one of the police from behind and a general melee started.

The youth in red fell with the policeman to the pavement, and another policeman pulled his revolver, and released a charge of tear gas into the demonstrators.

They fled in all directions at once, but the close packed group of spectators prevented their complete dispersal.

Six of the leaders in the fight were arrested immediately and escorted to a patrol wagon. The placards carried by the demonstrators were torn from their hands and trampled by the crowd.

Those arrested were taken to police headquarters while the remaining group scattered.

President Hoover had instructed the police to allow the demonstrators to carry out their plans so long as they were orderly and did not trespass on federal park jurisdiction outside Pennsylvania avenue.

The delegation abandoned plans to parade to the executive mansion, going instead in street cars. There were enough men and women to back several cars.

They carried numerous banners demanding that something be done about unemployment.

The president was at his temporary office in the state, war and navy building. The ruling against trespass on park property precluded any demonstration in Executive avenue, which separates this building from the White House, or on the White House grounds themselves. Both are a part of the city's park system.

The crowd assembled peacefully in Pennsylvania avenue a hundred yards away from the White House and the presidential office, and marched slowly up and down on crowded sidewalks. Many Negroes were among them and there was a scattering of women.

SING RED SONG

New York (AP)—The Communists demonstration against unemployment began in Union square shortly after noon today with the singing of the "Internationale."

There was little aid from the crowd that packed the square and extended down the streets in every direction in the singing of the Communist anthem and little vocal appreciation of the speakers who mounted wooden stands as the song swelled.

More than two hundred foot and mounted police, personally directed by Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, were on the scene while other men in plain clothes circulated through the crowd.

The police kept the crowds moving on the sidewalks and cleared traffic lanes in the street.

Other police were stationed at Stuyvesant square, two blocks to the east, where it had been reported, another demonstration was to be staged, while a ring of bluecoats surrounded city hall to head off any Communist demonstration there.

Two lanes filled with tear gas bombs were held in readiness in the temporary headquarters of Communist headquarters here.

Gandhi's Ultimatum To British Made Public In India

WILL IGNORE LAW IF EVILS TO CONTINUE

Says India Will Be Bled More Rapidly if Exploitation Doesn't Change

Ahmedabad, India — (P) — The ultimatum of Mahatma Gandhi to the British crown for Indian national independence, and threatening in lieu of that a campaign of intensive civil disobedience, was made public here today.

Gandhi, venerable Indian Nationalist, after a vehement attack of British rule in India, which he says "has impoverished the dumb millions," says: "On bended knees I ask you to ponder this phenomenon."

The ultimatum is addressed to Viceroy Lord Irwin, and begins: "My dear friend: Before embarking on civil disobedience and taking risks which I have dreaded all these years I would fain approach you and find a way out. My position is absolutely desperate. I hold British rule to be a curse but I do not intend to harm a single Englishman or any legitimate interest he may have in India."

The ultimatum then enumerates the circumstances in which his hope that a round table conference in London would furnish a solution of the problem was frustrated. Gandhi declared that as the plan for an interview at New Delhi miscarried there is not option but to carry out the solemn resolution of the national congress.

"The resolution for independence," the ultimatum declares, "should not cause alarm if the phrase 'dominion status' in your announcement was used in the accepted sense, for have not British statesmen admitted that dominion status is virtually independence? Since the plan for an interview, however, many things have happened which show unmistakably the trend of British policy."

"It is as clear as daylight that responsible British statesmen do not contemplate any alteration of British policy that might adversely affect British commerce with India or that would require impartial scrutiny. Great Britain's transactions in India, if nothing else, are the process of exploitation. India must be bled with increased speed."

"The party of violence is gaining ground and is making itself felt. Having an unquestioning, unmovable faith in the efficacy of non-violence it would be sinful, on my part to wait longer. This non-violence will be expressed through civil disobedience which, at the moment, will be confined to the inmates of the Ashram (Gandhi's college) but resigned ultimately to cover all those who join the movement."

"If you can not deal with these evils and if my letter does not appeal to your heart I shall, March 11, proceed with such measures as I can take for disregarding of the provisions of the salt tax, which is most iniquitous from the point of view of justice and which never should have been a part of the statute book."

"It is open to you to frustrate my design by arresting me but I hope there will be tens of thousands ready in a disciplined manner to take up the work after me."

FOX CONTINUES HIS FIGHT FOR CONTROL

Claims Stockholders Vindicated Him at Two Meetings Yesterday

New York — (P) — Claiming vindication by the stockholders of his motion picture enterprises, William Fox today faced the prospect of a prolonged fight for control.

The banker's plan to raise $50,000 to pay the debts of the Fox Film Corporation and Fox Theatre Corporation and avert a receivership was voted upon by stockholders in prolonged and fiery sessions yesterday. Although the result was unannounced, Mr. Fox claimed the banker's plan, which he favored had been approved by a 10 to 1 vote.

In view of the vote, the result of which was to be announced at adjourned meetings today, Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Mr. Fox, regarded it as "inconceivable" that the opposition would continue the fight.

This prospect was dissipated a short time after the meeting when John Otterson, president of the Electrical Research Products, Inc., and Harry L. Stuart, president of the Halsey-Stuart company announced they would continue the battle "with all the means within their power" in an effort to defeat the banker's plan. The companies which they head are the two largest creditors of the Fox companies, with claims of $27,000,000.

Otterson and Stuart with Mr. Fox are the trustees by an agreement made by Mr. Fox Dec. 3 under which he placed his classes B, or voting stock, in trust, and agreed that any financing plan must have their approval and that of counsel.

Supreme Court Justice Aaron Levy in a decision yesterday held this trust agreement still in effect.

Mrs. Schwimmer And Her Friend To Hear Word War

Washington — (P) — They both say they'll keep absolutely silent, but Mrs. Rosika Schwimmer and Miss Dorothy Detzer will be the center of a word-war on the subject of peaceful citizenship next Tuesday on Capitol Hill.

Remember the Schwimmer case? Remember the Detzer case? A few months ago they shimmered simultaneously.

Mrs. Schwimmer precipitated a controversy when she refused to subscribe to the "defense cause" of the oath of allegiance. A judge denied her citizenship.

Miss Detzer caused a furor of discussion when she balked at the same item in certification of passport. A more lenient judge substituted "affirmation" for both, and let her sail.

But alike, they point-blank refused to promise to take up arms and go forth and kill in defense of country.

Now Mrs. Schwimmer announces that she will appear, wordlessly in behalf of legislation which grew out of her case—the Griffin bill to amend the naturalization law by adding the new sentence:

"Except that no person mentally, morally and otherwise qualified shall be debarred from citizenship by reason of his or her religious views or philosophical opinions with respect to the lawfulness of war as a means of settling international disputes."

And Miss Detzer simultaneously says she will attend Tuesday's hearing on the Griffin bill before the house immigration and naturalization committee as Mrs. Schwimmer's silent champion, but not to testify.

Although they won't talk themselves, both women will be represented by spokesmen.

AUTO DEALERS AT SHEBOYGAN MEETING

Seven automobile dealers from Escanaba, Mich., and two from Menominee, Mich., also were present. C. F. Pratt, secretary of the association of commerce, and secretary of the division in Sheboygan presided at the meeting.

New Haven, Conn. — (P) — Death has overtaken Dr. Arthur Twining Hadley, president emeritus of Yale university, in Kobe, Japan, during a world cruise. He was 73 years old and president of the university from 1899 to 1921.

Stricken with pneumonia, the noted educator, writer, lecturer and economist died yesterday after a two-day illness. News of his death was received here last night. He sailed with Mrs. Hadley from New York on Dec. 3 on the Empress of Australia.

Hamilton Hadley, New York lawyer, a son, said that news of his father's death came as a great shock. A cablegram from his parents a few days ago reported both in good health, he said.

Dr. Hadley, Yale's thirteenth president, retired 23 years later after one of the most notable administrations in the history of the university to devote his entire time to the study of economics, to writing, and lecturing.

Besides his widow and Hamilton Hadley, he is survived by another son, Morris, also a lawyer in New York, and a daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Moseley of this city, whose husband is provost of Albertus Magnus college.

Dr. Hadley's body will be sent here for burial after it is brought from Japan to San Francisco by the Empress of Australia, which is expected to arrive in that city March 31. Services will be held in Battell chapel at Yale and interment will be in Grove-st. cemetery.

MUCH INTEREST IN QUESTION CONTEST

Many Students Write Home Merchants Association for More Information

That rural school students are taking an active interest in the question and answer contest sponsored by the Appleton Home Merchants association is indicated by the number of letters of inquiry received by the association asking for more information about the contest, according to Louis Bonini, chairman of the merchant's contest committee.

The contest will consist of a group of 20 advertisements in the Appleton Post-Crescent every Monday and Wednesday for 10 weeks, Mr. Bonini explained. The advertisements started last Monday. Each advertisement will contain a question to be answered or a statement that can be enlarged upon. Students must write an answer or statement for each advertisement, not to exceed 25 words. A total of 100 words may be written on the last question.

Mr. Bonini also said that students who miss any of the advertisements may receive copies of them by sending a letter to the Appleton Home Merchants association.

A complete explanation of the contest is to be sent to every rural school through the office of A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools.

Prizes totaling $205 are to be awarded to the best sets of answers.

COUNCIL DECIDES TO CONTINUE CITY DUMPING GROUNDS

Defeats Alderman Vanderheyden's Resolution by 11 to 1 Vote

After battling around the council chambers and committee rooms until its edges were frayed, Alderman W. H. Vanderheyden's resolution asking for abandonment of the city dumping ground on the John Tracy farm came up for the final vote Wednesday night, carrying in its trail charges of politics, of grandstand speech-making, and the extravagant expenditure of the public's money. The resolution was voted down 11 to one, Alderman Vanderheyden supporting his own motion.

Changing that politics were being played in the continuance of a dumping ground that costs the city $65 a month when one could have been obtained for $25 a month, Mr. Vanderheyden reviewed the history of the subject of his resolution, and lodged a protest against its being side-tracked any longer, asserting that the failure of the council to act on the matter was "an insult to my intelligence." He stated that an investigation had proved that too small a percentage of people use the dumping ground for the money expended, and that as far as he could see on an inspection trip there was little more than "a few crab apples, old potatoes and chicken feathers" unloaded at the grounds.

Alderman Phillip Vogt contended that the site is necessary, as the health of the city prohibits the disposal of garbage inside the city limits, and that until a garbage disposal plant is installed the dumping ground is worth its rental to the city.

Alderman Mike Steinhauer took issue with Mr. Vanderheyden's charge of graft, and accused him of making "a flowery speech full of 'I am . . . am'." Mr. Steinhauer stated that the dumping ground is essential, and that if there is another satisfactory site available at $10 a month, as his co-worker stated, the council would be only too willing to rent it.

FINED FOR BARBERING WITHOUT STATE LICENSE

Adrian Vander Hoogen, Little Chute, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday morning when he pleaded guilty of practicing barbering without a license. Vander Hoogen was arrested by Sheriff John Lappen Wednesday on complaint of E. C. Puerner, a state inspector. The state charged Vander Hoogen charged for cutting a neighbor's hair.

Facts About City Manager Form Of Government

VOTERS STILL ARE SEEKING FACTS OF CITY MANAGER PLAN

Local Men Get Every Preference in Making City Appointments

In spite of the vast amount of information concerning the city manager plan of government that has been given out since the manager movement started in Appleton last November, there still are a large number of people who seem to be misinformed. Part of this misinformation, it is true, is due to deliberate falsehoods that have been circulated by opponents of city manager government.

It has been falsely stated by a number of persons opposing the city manager plan that if the city manager plan is adopted that city employees all will be non-residents. Nothing could be farther from the truth. The law specifically states that the residence of an applicant for any city position shall not be a qualification, but that does not mean that officials necessarily must be selected from out of the city.

The practice in all city manager cities is to engage local men in every possible capacity. In practically every city the clerk, assessor, department heads, and others in responsible positions were residents of the city before they were appointed.

There still is heard the argument that the manager cannot be removed from office once he has been appointed. The fact is that the manager is appointed without contract of any kind and he can be removed at any time the council desires.

The commission council, consisting of persons elected by the people, is the sole judge of the manager's qualifications, fitness and efficiency and if this commission is dissatisfied for any reason whatsoever it can remove the manager and he has no recourse. This makes impossible any litigation over the manager's term or his appointment. The manager can be discharged just as readily by the commissioners as the manager of a mill can be discharged by the directors.

The articles that have been printed in The Post-Crescent the last few days have shown what can be accomplished in a city operated by a city manager. The unified control under the system makes possible savings that could not be accomplished under the aldermanic form.

The streets and highways departments of Janesville and Appleton furnish a striking illustration. Janesville has 13 more miles of street than Appleton, yet the cost of repaving, maintaining, cleaning and lighting them is less than one-third the cost in Appleton. The manager system is responsible for this huge saving because the manager has the sole responsibility for street work, while in Appleton the responsibility is divided first of all between six members of the committee on streets and bridges and then among the twelve members of the common council.

TAX RECEIPTS ON LAST DAY TOTAL $377,081

Although the figures have not been checked, Fred Bachman, city treasurer, states that the receipts for the last day of the tax collection period totaled $377,081.92. This brought the amount collected during January and February up to $917,734.97. From now until the city books are turned over to the county, a 2 per cent penalty will be added to taxes paid at the city treasurer's office.

Could Write a Book About It

"Nine years ago after my little girl was born dead, I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about four months. The next year I became the mother of a fine 11 pound baby boy. After he was born, I kept on with the medicine to build me up. Four months ago I was nervous and rundown and suffered from other troubles which I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would relieve so I started taking it and now I feel fine again. Many of my friends could write a book on the good the Vegetable Compound has done them."—Mrs. W. "I admire the leaders of the electrical industry"

Says William Green President, American Federation of Labor

"With a business sagacity which challenges our admiration, the leaders of the electrical industry adopt and put into force each new invention and discovery as soon as it is perfected and ready for market. And I am certain no other industry is devoting so much time, money and effort to the SUCCESSFUL EXPANSION of its service and production."

DO YOU recall the time when the only electrical service available was electric light — and it was a novelty?

There are more than sixty-eight and a half million people in the United States living in electrically wired homes; over thirty million electric horse power serving American industry; more than three million investors owning the companies furnishing electric power, heat and light.

The rapidity of this expansion, and the universal benefit it has conferred, have been due primarily to the courage, initiative, and prophetic vision which have inspired the operations of the country's light and power companies.

On To Washington Editor Sorting Out Prize Winners

The On to Washington editor of the Post-Crescent was hard at work Thursday sorting out the deluge of ideas submitted during the past week in the money earning contest.

The second list of prize winners will appear in Friday's Post-Crescent. Watch for it, boys and girls, as you may be one of the lucky ones to receive a half dollar this week.

Prizes announced last week are being mailed from the office of A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, direct to the schools where the winners are enrolled. Teachers will distribute the prizes.

Letters have been pouring into the Post-Crescent office rapidly and the contest editor is having a hard time choosing the week's prize winners, as many good ideas have been received.

It may be necessary to hold some of the letters until next week—so if you do not win a prize this week, watch for next week's list.

And above all, boys and girls, don't stop working now. There still are hundreds of unique and original ways to earn money so why not try to figure out what they are. Remember, the Post-Crescent will announce a list of prize winners every week. There is no limit to the number of prizes you may win.

The contest will run until next June, with prizes awarded every week. Get busy now and see if you can't swell your commencement trip fund.

5TH WARD VOTERS FORM ORGANIZATION

Indorse Two Candidates for Aldermanic Nomination at Primaries

Voters of the Fifth ward are forming an organization known as the Fifth Ward Voters club to provide a means for discussing issues of particular interest to that portion of the city.

The first meeting was held last evening in the basement of the Insurance building with more than fifty persons in attendance. Daniel Leppla was elected president and R. C. Breitung was named secretary of the new organization.

A discussion of the aldermanic campaign in the Fifth ward resulted in adoption of a resolution indorsing the candidacies of Richard Groth and E. L. Kleist at the primary election. Harvey Priebe, the present alderman who is seeking the nomination, did not meet with the approval of the organization.

The discussion revealed intense interest in municipal affairs and it was decided to form a permanent organization that will make the Fifth ward felt in discussion of the city's business. It is planned to hold meetings at intervals to discuss matters of interest to Fifth warders and to invite city officials to express their views and hear what Fifth ward residents have to say about matters concerning them and the city at large.

COL. HOUSE'S VIEW
Col. Edward M. House sees in the second disarmament conference now in progress at London a steady march towards the goal of peace since Versailles, and with it progress in the realization of Woodrow Wilson's international ideals. In an interview published in the New York Times the once-intimate friend of the war president and member of the American peace delegation, gives Mr. Wilson full credit for setting in motion the forces which are today everywhere operating so powerfully for world peace. The League of Nations, the world court, Locarno treaties, the Kellogg-Briand pact, the Washington arms conference and the Geneva and London conferences he declares are the products of the idealism Wilson forced upon the attention of the world in 1918-19. Without the League as a starting point there would have been no foundation on which to build international confidence. Referring to the failure to negotiate a treaty at Versailles either in accordance with justice or with the Wilson program, Col. House says: "Despite the fact that it (the treaty) was only a compromise, nevertheless all that has happened in the last ten years that leads toward peace is a result of Wilson's part in its making." This is a strong and generous statement from one with whom the president broke under the most unfortunate circumstances.

A dispassionate view compels admission that what Col. House says has much to support it. Woodrow Wilson could not achieve what he set out to accomplish, either in the negotiation of peace, or in his plans for making the world secure against war and safe for democracy, but he put in motion ideas and forces more formidable than all the reactionary statesmanship in the world combined, more formidable than kings and emperors, more formidable even than the august United States senate. Overcoming ridicule, prejudice, misrepresentation, jingoism and political opportunism, his soul goes marching on. The utterances of the Harding presidential campaign will keep the Republican party apologizing for the next fifty years. It is a dark page in our political history, of which the least said the better. Likewise Republican foreign policies since that time, at least to the advent of Herbert Hoover.

Referring to the League of Nations, Col. House says it was the "forerunner of those other pacts and conferences and that if the United States had been a member there would be no need for the others. The fact that we and Russia decline to cooperate with the rest of the world in maintenance of peace makes these other conferences necessary. Our refusal to participate in the peace deliberations at Geneva is based upon the theory that by not becoming a member we avoid entangling alliances, but we run far more danger by holding aloof, as we may some day discover to our loss." The mere fact that conferences like that at London are being held proves that the world is making progress towards peace. However, Col. House doubts if they would be held if the League were not an established fact and a going concern. "That body," he says, "has shown more clearly than anything else that it is possible for two or more representatives of nations to sit at a table and discuss questions of moment. * * * The League is responsible for this face-to-face diplomacy, and the visit of a foreign prime minister to our president in order to discuss certain measures shows what an influence the League has. Could you imagine that happening twenty years ago?" At the time the treaty of Versailles was signed Col. House felt the world was a long ways from peace, was in fact in a belligerent mood, and that the next decade would be all-important in determining whether the tendency would be toward more war and ruin.

"We have gone through this period safely," he adds, "and, although we are not in the League, it is working more than satisfactorily and peace is more reasonably assured than ever before in the world's history." Col. House's observations compel respect. His frank recognition of facts and mistakes of eleven years ago emphasizes the logic and soundness of his conclusions. The world is indeed moving toward the goal fixed by Woodrow Wilson, and every day strengthens the foundations of peace that are slowly but surely being laid, our petty politicians, little minds, militarists and blow-hards to the contrary notwithstanding.

PACIFIC PATRIOTS
The Rev. Charles Clayton Morrison, editor of the Christian Century, thinks it is inconsistent to deny citizenship to immigrants who profess conscientious scruples against bearing arms in support of this country in case of war. We are all "behind the times," he maintains, in talking about "conscientious objections." The time has come when objecting to bearing arms is loyalty to the United States. This comes about, he explains, very simply. "The government has signed the Paris peace pact by which it has outlawed war. Therefore it is good citizenship and the highest patriotism on the part of every individual to refuse to bear arms."

Most of us will reply immediately that good citizenship implies willingness to bear arms for our country in self-defense, and that the Kellogg-Briand pact does not forbid this. Such an interpretation is evidently justified by the mental reservation with which the powers, including our own country, accepted the pact. Such reservation was frankly recognized by all parties.

There remains, however, the unanswered question, "What is self-defense?" It has never been satisfactorily and officially defined. And if you believe the fighters, all wars, on both sides, are fought in self-defense. Then there is the reinforcing declaration in the Paris pact that we will never resort to any but peaceful measures to settle disputes. Neither this nation nor any other nation is yet ready to accept the obvious implication of its pledge. The Rev. Mr. Morrison's final statement, however, can be accepted without question: "The unpatriotic citizen is he who, in spite of the government's action, continues to stir up war feelings." If any of our citizens are un-American now, they are the militarists.

FINANCIAL JARGON
Al Smith, who is by way of being a banker himself, thinks bankers ought to use plain English instead of fancy financial jargon. They are talking over the heads of the man in the street, he thinks. Instead of "uncumbered balances," for example, he thinks they ought to tell an ordinary citizen, "Here's what you've got that nobody can touch."

He tells of a customer who, after inquiring in his bank regarding a collateral loan, started out uncertainly, then asked the doorman when "AI" would be in, waited two hours to see him, and asked him what officials meant by his "equity" in his securities.

To the bankers, no doubt, the specialized terms they use are familiar and simple. But to the common citizen they are often unintelligible. Every line of business tends to develop its own special dialect which needs to be "stepped down" for general use or translated for the fellow who uses some other kind of dialect. There are nearly always simple English words within the comprehension of almost anybody, that might be used.

The financial writers next to the sport writers, are the worst sinners in this respect. It takes a great deal of special knowledge nowadays to understand what business experts are writing about, or what financial statements contain. And it is important that they be understood, at a time when so many more people are investing in securities and interested in general market conditions.

Seventeen billion postage stamps and 1,750,000,000 postal cards are sold annually by the Post Office Department of the United States.

Today's Anniversary
SHERIDAN'S BIRTH
On March 6, 1831, Philip Sheridan, famous American soldier, was born at Albany, New York.
In 1862, nine years after he graduated from West Point, Sheridan was appointed colonel of the Second Michigan Cavalry. At the outbreak of the Civil War, he gained early recognition for his courage and daring.
Recognized by Grant as a stubborn fighter, Sheridan was appointed commander of the army at Shenandoah. While he won praise in this command for his brilliant defeat of General Early and the capture of 5,000 of his men and several guns, Sheridan was widely censured for his ruthless destruction of Shenandoah valley.
After the war, Sheridan visited Europe to witness the Franco-Prussian War. On his return he was named to succeed Sherman as chief commander of the army. He died at Nonquitt, Mass., Aug. 5, 1888.

THE DOCTOR ATTENDS A MEETING OF THE MEDICAL SOCIETY
So far as questions of opinion are concerned, I make no bones of thinking that my own opinion is as good as the opinion of any other doctor, living or dead, that is, on any general medical or health matter. Of course, I defer to the opinion of a specialist about something in his field.
If it is a question of fact, then opinions do not matter.
Sometimes it is impossible to learn what the consensus of medical opinion may be about a given subject. For instance, is it the consensus of medical opinion today that wet feet, insufficient clothing, drafts, sudden changes, and the like, tend to lower "resistance" or to render an individual more susceptible to respiratory infections? Many laymen think so, because they have had only the teachings of certain health officers to judge by. I have long thought that a substantial part of the medical profession still holds some such view. But I was surprised and delighted the other day when I brought the question up in a medical meeting, to that most of the physicians present were inclined to consider such factors insignificant, and all who expressed definite ideas about it remarked that certainly you could not get a cold by wet clothing, are apparently less susceptible to respiratory diseases today than ever before. So you see, the consensus of medical opinion is a difficult thing to ascertain, and as a rule the doctor who pretends to say what it is merely voices his own opinion, after all.
In this same medical meeting I did not find any aid or comfort in my attitude in skin absorption. Every good doctor who expressed his views about that seemed to believe certain things, such as mercury, may be absorbed thru the unbroken skin. That belief, I fancy, comes as nearly being the consensus of medical opinion as anything one could mention. Well, as the argument waxed warm one of the good doctors fairly took you and out of my seat by remarking that it requires a temperature of approximately 400 degrees to volatilize mercury—and it was not till next day that I asked Prof. Witthaus about that and he informed me that mercury is volatile at all temperatures—but you see how the consensus of medical opinion gets that way, don't you?
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Rheumatism and the Heart
Would be glad if you will explain the cause of inflammatory rheumatism. Does it cause leakage of the heart? How long after stricken will it affect the heart, is there any cure for leakage of the heart? What are the symptoms?
(Mrs. E. W. H.)
Answer—Your last question stops the impulse to answer the other questions. But instead I'll mention a few facts about acute joint inflammation and the heart. The cause of acute joint inflammation, where one joint after another becomes involved, is generally a Streptococcus infection, and this has its source in some pre-existing focus such as infected tonsils, sinus, teeth. In such illness there is always a considerable probability that the Streptococcus or germ responsible for the joint inflammation may enter the blood stream and so lodge on the lining of the heart. That may or may not happen to be the region of the heart valves; if it is, then that valve may become distorted and leaky.
Concentric Stridor
When about 3 weeks old our baby developed snoring or noisy breathing. The doctor called it concentric stridor. The baby is now 7 months old, weighs 20 pounds, and seems very well except for this. It often wakes me at night, is this noise? Is there any cure for this? (Mrs. M. S.)
Answer—No. As a rule it begins to diminish at the seventh or eighth month and disappears altogether in the second year, except for occasional stridor during excitement.
No Fruit Very Fattening
Is any fruit besides bananas, eaten with or between meals, fattening? (L. C.)
Answer—Persons who are underweight may pick up by eating a lot of grapes in the grape harvesting season. That's the only fruit besides bananas that will help increase weight, far as I know.
Big Man, Heap Big Nerves
You say nervousness is due to mental disease and that only. I am secretary to an industrial leader. This man could not have achieved his present position nor maintain it now if he did not possess one of the best minds in the country. He has doctored with the best specialists for 12 years, yet (O. C.)
Answer—I did not say or mean that so called "nervousness" is due to mental deficiency. You know even dangerous insane persons may have great shrewdness, inventiveness and other faculties or qualities that might make one successful in business. I tried to say that the "nervousness" of the daily means rather mental, psychological or emotional tricks, dodges or disguises to the doctor. Of course the patient deceives himself as well as the world.
White Marks in Nails
My doctor noticed the white marks on my finger nails and said they were due to deficiency of calcium in my diet or deficient utilization of calcium. This is at variance with your statement regarding their insignificance. (B. D.)
Answer—Possibly. My notion is that such marks are due to trifling injuries of the nails. This is the general view. Perhaps your doctor can establish the soundness of his view by correcting your calcium metabolism.

The Tynmites
By Hal Cochran
THE plane kept moving right along before the wind that blew real strong. The Tynmites all wondered what was going to happen next. The plane tipped round from left to right. It seemed that it would drop from sight. The Tynmites couldn't manage it. No wonder they were vexed.
Yelled Scouty, "Say, I just can't steer. Will someone else, please, crawl up here? I'll gladly let him have the wheel to see what he can do. I've tried to keep you going straight, but when you're trailing at this rate, I cannot seem to do a thing. As pilot I am through."
Then Clowdy said, "I'll try it once. Of course I may turn out a dunce and know much less than you do but at least it's worth a try." He then crawled right up to the wheel and soon the others heard him squeal, "My goodness, this is terrible. We'll drop down from the sky!"
The plane had swung round to the "round" and it seemed headed for the ground. Just then a big rainstorm broke loose and, my, how it did rain! "I guess we're doomed," we Carry cried. "This is a very frightful ride. Our plan was just to have some fun but now that seems in vain."
"Oh, look!" cried Clowdy. "I'm wise. I'll do a trick before your eyes. I'll keep us all from falling. We'll now hang on good and tight. I'm going to show you how a clown can make a plane turn up-side-down. When I have done this little stunt, I think we'll be all right."
The next move made the Tynmites sigh. The plane swerved round, up in the sky until the bottom side was up. The bunch heard Clowdy shout, "Now, just hang on and swing your feet. I think my trick is quite a treat. We won't get wet, but hang here till the rain has all rained out."

Seen And Heard In New York
BY RICHARD MASSOCK
New York — Ski jumping is as dear to the hearts of Nordic sportsmen as football is to the American collegian and the Scandinavian inhabitants of New York delight in real winter weather.
A cold wave means skiing on the hills along the Hudson. Anybody with a pair of skis may slide across the countryside as long as he wishes. Mere spectators may go to Salisbury Mills, or to White Plains, to see the various club meets.
Special trains take loads of eager Swedes and Norwegians to these two points on Sundays. Other go by automobile until a crowd of several thousand usually collects to see the gliding leaps.
The boys have a great time, but the newsreel boys, out for the spectacular shots, and not being enthusiasts, suffer from the cold. The other Sunday they had a band with them to make things merrier. The horn tooters soon were soundless on account of chapped lips.
SENSATION
If the New York newspapers are accurate reflectors, everybody likes animal stories. The metropolitan press has given columns lately to two of them.
One was about a sealing expedition in Central Park reservoir. The other was about the capture of a "possum" in the park.
Both apparently began with reports of strange creatures being seen by habitues of the park which, as you should know, is in the heart of Manhattan. Somebody thought he had seen a huge fish, seemingly a near-whale, in the reservoir. Horseback riders subsequently reported the frightening of their steeds by a strange animal.
Various officials were interested in the Central Park fish, anyway, so they dragged the reservoir. The haul was a lone four-inch bass, bitterly resentful of being thus annoyed. The other animal, tracked down, turned out to be a zoo opossum suffering from wanderlust.
HETTY GREEN'S DEWEY
Our weekly animal story is from the biography of Hetty Green, which is being written by Boyden Sparkes and Samuel Moore.
The only creature that the "world's richest woman"—according to the biographers—never sacrificed to her love for money was her little lap-dog, Dewey.
Everything else—love comfort, luxury, reputation and her children—was said to have been sacrificed for her passion for wealth. When her husband, Edward Green, who had helped to build her fortune, plunged on her credit and lost, she paid his debts and put him out of her life.
When the weather grew too cold, she supplemented her underwear with layers of newspapers. She ate at cheap lunch counters and slept in the meanest of rooming houses.
But when Dewey, shaggy and unkempt, was taken sick, she gave up everything. Her failure to pay a daily visit to her bank caused rumors in every banking house in New York. Night after night she sat up until morning with the little dog, and when he finally died she had a serious nervous breakdown.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON
BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—The stir and hubbub so common in the house of representatives appeared to quiet down a bit when Oscar De Priest, the only negro in congress, arose the other day and requested permission to proceed for two minutes out of order.
A few minutes before the Illinois representative had been seen making his way to the chamber with two members of his race, both past the age of 80. Some had recognized them, but many more had not.
In a voice clear and audible, Representative De Priest presented his visitors—John R. Lynch and Thomas E. Miller, ex-congressman, the former from Mississippi and the latter from South Carolina.
As the name of each was called, he arose and bowed. Short was De Priest's introduction. His only remark aside from the presentation was:
"I am glad to have the privilege of presenting these gentlemen to you. They happen to be gentlemen of the racial group with which I am identified, so I am not the only one left."
SERVED THREE TERMS
An ex-slave is John R. Lynch. He and his mother were held in bondage at Natchez, Miss., until Lincoln's emancipation proclamation. Later he engaged in photography, the meanwhile studying at night school.
His participation in politics began in 1869 with the appointment by Mississippi's carpetbagger governor, Adelbert Ames, to a post as justice of the peace. He also was elected to the state house of representatives where he remained until 1873.
Then Lynch came to congress, elected to the lower house as a republican. He served two terms, was out two terms, and then was back for a third term after successfully contesting an election.
He was an "unsuccessful candidate" for a fourth term and went back to farming. Two Presidents gave him political appointments after his service in congress.
Harrison made him fourth auditor of the treasury for the navy department. McKinley appointed him major and additional paymaster during the Spanish-American war.
CONTESTED ELECTION
Miller is a native of South Carolina. His education was obtained in Charleston and in the east. His first political post was that of school commissioner in 1872. He was a member of the South Carolina legislature for six terms, three in the house and one in the senate.
His one term in congress was the result of a successfully contested election.

MODERN SETTINGS TO CHARACTERIZE NEXT COLLEGE PLAY

Sunset Players Will Present
"The Queen's Husband"
on March 14

"The Queen's Husband", which Sunset players, Lawrence college dramatic organization will present in Lawrence Memorial chapel March 14, will have a tone as modern and dramatic as present day politics in Spain or Italy. Modern stage settings and costumes will contribute to the contemporary ideas in the plot.

As in "Outward Bound," recent Sunset production, an individual stage setting will be used. The background is being designed to achieve the effect of palatial spaciousness, the scene of the play being laid in the King's palace. The rear wall will be arranged in a series of "flats," which will gradually increase in height toward the center. The color of the flats will range from a rich cream to a royal purple, further stressing the idea of size that is desired.

In painting these backgrounds three different methods of painting will be employed. While the use of the three methods will give effectiveness to the settings, at the same time their use will furnish instruction in stage painting to the members of a Lawrence college play production class.

The costumes will be in harmony with the modern tone of the rest of the production. The soldiers and officers in the cast will wear the black shirted uniforms of the Fascist regime. The scene in which the wedding party appears promises to be the most elaborate in the play. In this scene the princess wears a wedding gown and the king and queen appear in full dress regalia, adorned with glittering medals.

Roy McNeil, Mellon, previously announced as the player assuming the character of Prince William of Greece, has been eliminated by an attack of acute appendicitis. Robert Hunt, Oshkosh, has been selected to fill the vacancy in the cast. The production is in daily rehearsal under the direction of F. Theodore Cloak, Lawrence college dramatic coach.

FIFTEEN GIRLS INJURED IN PLAYGROUND MISHAP

New York—(AP)—Fifteen girls between the ages of 11 and 16 were injured, seven of them seriously when a trapdoor over an ash hoist in the playgrounds of Holy Cross parochial school in Brooklyn collapsed Wednesday, dropping them into the basement.

Seven of the 15 girls who fell the 25 feet into the basement were taken to Kings County hospital in ambulances suffering from broken bones and severe cuts.

The children had just been released from school for a play hour and were frolicking in the sun of the playground when the trapdoor of glass and reinforced steel gave away dropping them screaming into the basement.

Lady Tells How New Medicine
Ended Stomach Trouble After All Else Tried Failed

MRS. DIETRICK BOLTE

"Konjola worked so speedily that I was astounded," said Mrs. Dietrick Bolte, Box 21, St. Donatus, Ia., near Dubuque. "My stomach was so disordered that my health in general was affected. Everything I ate fermented quantities of gas. I had itching spells, and swimming, splitting headaches. This condition grew steadily worse until I became very nervous. And the discouraging thing was that not a medicine or treatment I tried did the least bit of good."

Friends kept urging me to try Konjola and finally I consented to do so. This new medicine gave me no opportunity to become discouraged for it went right to work. Poisons were swept from my system and health surged back. Headaches disappeared and have never returned. Nerves were quieted and then my digestion was restored. All my new health I owe to Konjola and I endorse it with all my heart."

Konjola is sold in Appleton at Schmitz Bros. Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

IT MAY HAVE BEEN A NEW "RACKET" BUT IT WAS ORIGINAL

"Say buddy, could you give a fellow a couple of nickels to get some oil of cloves or tooth ache drops?" an Appleton pedestrian was asked Tuesday noon.

"What?" exploded the man questioned.

"Yes, sir," came the answer in all earnestness. "I'm bumming my way from Stevens Point to Green Bay, and am suffering with toothache and neuralgia and need something to stop the pain. Yesterday my face was swollen like a balloon and you still can see the swelling hasn't gone down."

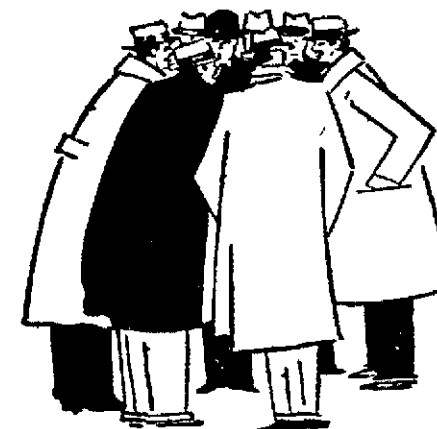

All with that he produced an empty bottle that had contained patented toothache drops. The good Samaritan to be pondered a moment did not think the man had been drinking, considered the slightly swollen face, and then produced a quarter.

The fellow may have been trying a new "racket" and all that, but his story deserved a quarter for originality if nothing else. There is something new under the sun!

"FIRST A SHADOW, then a sorrow"

(Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, 1807-1882)

"Coming events

shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—men who would keep that trim, proper form, eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the lithe, youthful, modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Society And Club Activities

World Day Of Prayer Is Friday

FINAL arrangements have been completed for the special World Day of Prayer services at 2:30 Friday afternoon at All Saints Episcopal church. The public is invited to attend the services in which 11 churches of the city are taking part. These churches are St. John Evangelical, First English Lutheran, Emanuel Evangelical, First Baptist, Memorial Presbyterian, First Congregational, First Reformed, German Methodist, Methodist, All Saints Episcopal, and Trinity English Lutheran church.

Mrs. E. F. Franz will be the leader of the meeting and Mrs. J. R. Deynes will be the principal speaker on the subject, A Call to Pray and Witness. The theme of the service this year is "That Jesus May be Lifted Up." The program for this service was compiled by a Korean girl who attended the Jerusalem conference in 1928. Music will be provided by a choir of 35 voices taken from all of the churches.

George Knoke will be in charge of the music. Miss Helen Mueller, contralto, of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music, will give a vocal solo.

Others taking part in the program include Mrs. O. D. Cannon, Methodist Episcopal church; Mrs. J. L. Johns, All Saints Episcopal; Mrs. D. E. Bosserman, Trinity English Lutheran; Mrs. J. F. Neimstedt and Miss Lois Neimstedt, Emanuel Evangelical; Miss Arvill Krutner, St. John Evangelical; Mrs. Clarence Richter, First English Lutheran; Mrs. J. Wilson, First Congregational; Mrs. George Peterson, First Baptist; Mrs. Frank Clippinger, First Presbyterian. The offering will be taken for religious work in Indian schools and immigrant work in the homeland, for Christian literature for women and children in mission fields and for Women's Union Christian colleges in foreign lands.

The World Day of Prayer originated in 1887 in the eastern part of the country when a small group of women met together to organize a prayer service. Later a Foreign Mission Day of prayer was observed in November and a Home Mission Day of prayer in January. In 1920 the first united Day of Prayer was observed and the day was set for the first Friday in Lent. Canada entered the movement about 1921 and since 1925 it has become a World Day of Prayer, with Christian women all over the world uniting in the service. The theme for the first program in 1920 was "The World To Christ We Bring."

This is the second year that Appleton churches have united in observing the day, the service last year having been held at Trinity English Lutheran church. Before that time, each church observed the day individually.

PARIS STYLES FOR SPRING SHOW GAITY

By DIANA MERWIN Fashion Editor (Associated Press Feature Service)

Paris—(AP)—Paris spring styles for evening hours strike the ladies-bag-gay note.

Feminine frippery naturally suggests frailty. Chiffon lace and tulle are in ascendancy with rich stained-metal brocade chifon and gay printed taffeta much in evidence. Ankles are definitely in eclipse. Even toes disappear occasionally behind swirls of wide chiffon panels which trail and hemlines which only manage to clear the floor by a whisper.

Dance and dinner dresses continue to show exaggerated décolletés, some of the prettiest being literally backless to the waistline, except for miniature shoulder capes which split up the center.

Evening wraps nearly all are hip length. Evening ensembles of printed chiffon, with fur lined cape-jackets to match, are new. The same idea is carried out in lace or satin. Colored long gloves are widely shown and dressmakers place in assistance on jewelry.

Wriston, Lawrence president and all sorority presidents, entertained Lawrence fraternity presidents at a dinner in Russell Sage dormitory last night. Three projects were brought before the meeting. The problem of more equal social responsibility among college organizations was one of the problems. The possibility of sororities bearing a larger ratio of social activity was presented but due to the complexity of such a plan, no definite solution was found. A committee was suggested to look into campus problems later, bringing the results of the investigations before a meeting similar to the one last night. Further meetings were endorsed in view of the success of this first one.

CAPE FORMS POPULAR IN EVENING WRAPS

Paris—(AP)—Did the cape collar so much in evidence in spring styles come from America to France, or did it go from France to America and back again?

Couturiers of Paris and American stylists disagree on its origin, both sides of the Atlantic claiming credit for the shoulder broadening cape, cape sleeve and cape collar.

Cape sleeves and collars are dominant notes in evening wrap styles for the coming season. Several couturiers stress evening coats with elbow-length cape sleeves and fur-bordered cape collars which reach to the elbow, taking the place of sleeves.

All cape forms are used extensively in the new styles. Sport, tailored, formal afternoon and evening models include the cape idea.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE first thought that flashed through Sue's mind as the men fastened a towel across her eyes and slipped a gag into her mouth was that Sybil Lester was back of the kidnapping. She shuddered. Sybil! Taunting eyes, sneering lips....cruel and desperate and revengeful!

Her thoughts came in a panoramic jumble although she did not know she thought. Heavy hands seized her, half-carried, half-dragged her across a field somewhere, it seemed. She could still hear music, faint now and subdued, through the cloth about her face. Would they miss her soon? Would they start to search for her? And would they find her? Maybe they never would!

Would they never stop pulling her, she was wondering. Her arms would be bruised from their grasp. She struggled again and the hands closed down like vices that would crush the bones if they were bound a fraction of an inch tighter.

She kicked and a heavy boot hurtled itself against her leg with such force that the pain made her scream, but no sound came.

After a while she was aware that she was being dumped into what was apparently the back seat of an automobile. It started down the road and the clasp on her wrists did not loosen. Where was she going? What would happen when she arrived?

FANS, FLOWERS BEADS, BOWS ARE FAVORED

Washington—(AP)—Army girls in Washington present the ultra feminine mode in dance frocks this season in striking contrast to the background of severe tailor-made uniforms of their escorts.

Feather fans, flowers, beads and bows are favored for that demure effect which the up-to-date members of the younger set prefers.

Mrs. Coolidge introduced the huge feather fan at a White House party last winter and since then it has been gaining in vogue. Mrs. Edward Everett Carr, sister of the vice president, carries a huge one of old feathers which was sent her as a gift.

So many artificial flowers are worn by the younger girls that often they cover the whole shoulder and side. In color they range from flame to green and in kind from orchids to violets.

CITY MAY INSURE MORE BUILDINGS; STUDY PROPOSAL

Proposed Purchase of Protection Is Referred to Council Committee

Neenah—Insurance on city property was discussed Wednesday evening by the city council. Alderman John Stipp suggested that the city buy between $2,000 and $3,000 insurance on the city treasurer to protect that officer on trips to and from the banks, especially during the tax collection time. Clerk Harry Zemlock suggested that both burglary and holdup insurance be purchased. The proposal was referred to the finance committee.

It was reported that there is not enough insurance on the city hall, or on the schools and practically none on some of the city's buildings in the parks and cemeteries. It was suggested that the clerk confer with the several boards under which the buildings are managed in regard to purchasing more insurance.

A communication from Dr. T. D. Smith stating that the city is poorly equipped in life saving services. He suggested that an inhalator be purchased to be used in drowning and electrical accidents. An appropriation was voted for the purchase of necessary equipment.

Monthly reports of the poor, police and justice departments were presented. Blockading of gutters by placing clinders on Seventh-street will be investigated by the street department, as will the possibility of designating a weighing scale as the official city scale. The committee investigating the need of city intersection signs reported that so far 211 such signs are needed. It was suggested that the committee confer with the planning commission about remaining some of the streets.

Bills amounting to $25,165.34, including state tax, were approved. Following the meeting the committee on parks and buildings met to select furniture for the council chamber.

FINANCIERS NOT WORRIED ABOUT SPANISH TROUBLE

Investments in That Country Are Considered Safe, They Report

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1930, by The Press
New York.—During the seven years of Primo De Rivera's dictatorship, the International Telephone and Telegraph company, with headquarters in New York, has spent about $30,000,000 in Spain.

Today, with General De Rivera unseated, with General Berenguer, his successor still in enigma and with ominous hints of smothered unrest and impending chaos, neither this company nor the great international bankers whose dollar transfusions have saved Spain in the past, disclose any grave concern about their over-seas millions.

Naturally, the International Telephone company enjoys a unique advantage in keeping in touch with developments in Spain. It is a simple matter for its executives to call up Spain on the ether waves and get the latest news, and this is done every day. Typical of the opinion of American financiers generally are the views of Frank C. Page, son of Walter Hines Page, and vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph company.

"I cannot speak for the company," said Mr. Page, "as it has stated no official point of view, and I can only give my own opinion, from my visits to Spain and my present contact with this situation. I am firmly convinced that the present changes in Spain do not grow out of fundamental economic disturbances, and, that, as far as foreign investments are concerned, their repercussions will be political, with little effect on the economic situation."

"It was not an economic upset which brought Primo de Rivera into power. It was the breakdown of the Morocco campaign. Similarly, it was political complications, plus the inadequacy of his financial ministry, and the fall of the peseta, normally at about 19.3 cents and now around 12 which caused his withdrawal. The drive toward a republic is confined to the students and the young intellectuals. This is not the organized communism as we know it. King Alfonso has something about him both humorous and human which gives him a tenacious hold on the Spanish throne. I do not believe much progress will be made in the republican movement."

NOT INDUSTRIALIZED
"Spain is not, as yet, a highly industrialized country, and each of the varying provinces has a deeply rooted economic life of its own. These traditional growths, still feudal in some aspects, make the country resistant to sudden maelstroms of politics and finance."
"Our affairs in Spain have not been effected by recent happenings. They couldn't be. The International Telephone company operates throughout the world by subordinate corporations, for which it is the holding company. In Spain, 80 per cent of the preferred stock, 20 per cent of the common stock and all the bonds represent Spanish capital. Administration and management are Spanish. We merely supply them a technique and an organization."

"King Alfonso is both qualified and inclined to lay a firm hand on affairs when necessary. General Primo De Rivera accomplished much for Spain, particularly in road building, but the king did not hesitate to exercise his prerogative when he deemed it necessary. It seems to have been overlooked that the general was overthrown not by the general but by the king himself."

Sr. Don Diego Carlos Fonseca, ex-prior of Barcelona, now visiting New York and Washington in the interest of a Spanish shipping cartel, has this to say:

"We do not fear serious disturbances in Spain. Radicalism there, even among the extremists, is largely of the parliamentary or possible Marxian brand, and there is a large element among them who believe that constitutional government and, in every important sense, a Republic can be established without the overthrow of the king. My own view is that Spain is moving toward a constitutional monarchy, following closely the pattern of England."

Geologists say that man has existed on the earth from 100,000 to 1,500,000 years.

DAILY LENTEN THOUGHT

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor-in-Chief of The Congressionalist

As the Lenten season has long represented for many people, and in recent years has come to represent for many more, a sort of holy of holies, or inner sanctuary, of the year, so the facts that it commemorates constitute for those who sincerely apprehend them a holy of holies in life itself.

Why should one time, or one experience, be holier than another? Is not all time, and all life, holy? Are not both alike the gift of God?

Life itself gives the answer. On no plane of experience is all on a dead level. Without its inspirational moments life would be void of inspiration at all. It is the enlightenment of the moment of vision that brightens the way of toll and drudgery. The Master's own life of goodness and of service among his fellow-

WOMAN IS CANDIDATE FOR CLERK OF TOWN

Mrs. Lydia W. Powless, Oneida, widow of Emanuel Powless, has declared herself as the first woman candidate for the office of clerk of the town of Oneida. Her husband served in that office for 12 years and she assisted him with the work. She was graduated from the Carlisle Indian School in Pennsylvania and from the Commercial College there.

men had its background and preparation in the experience in the wilderness and in the night spent on the mountain in prayer.

None of life can be holy without its holy of holies. The life that has no inner sanctuary is apt to have little outward power. It is possible to regard the holy events that the Lenten season commemorates with an observance that is largely formal, but if there be no real response of the soul to the commemoration of the Passion and death of Our Lord at the Eastertide, there is not likely to be any real response to the Master's sacrificial love at any other season of the year.

The true significance of Lent for us is inseparable from all that the experience which it commemorates meant in the life of the Master. (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

ATWATER KENT RADIO

4872 HOURS and still going strong

MAN in Long Beach, California, bought an Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio last August and has had it in continuous operation—24 hours a day—ever since.

He wanted to make a personal test of the famed dependability of an Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Set.

At last report his radio had functioned steadily for 4872 hours and was still going strong, without even the change of a tube.

"It has continued to give first-class service and the most natural tone of any radio I ever heard," he writes. "It has proved the superiority and surpassing quality of Atwater Kent Radio."

Probably you will not want to run your radio 24 hours a day. But what a comfort to know that an Atwater Kent is so sturdily built you can count on it for long, long service.

Look inside an Atwater Kent and see the workmanship, just as you would lift the hood and look at the engine, in buying an automobile. See how battleship ruggedness is combined with the precision and finish of a fine watch.

"An Atwater Kent works and keeps on working." For eight years people have been saying that. And for eight years Atwater Kent sets have been proving that they are right.

MADDEN, HEAVYWEIGHT BOXER, DIES FROM FALL

Washington —(P)—A fall of 20 feet from the steps of the treasury building during a sightseeing trip here brought to an end the career of Bartley Madden, 41-year-old Irish heavyweights who became famous for his staying qualities against championship contenders.

Madden died in a hospital here last night, a few hours after he had accidentally stepped off the incline. He had stopped for a day in the capital on his way to New York, from Miami, where he had attended the Sharkey-Fott fight.

He came to the United States as holder of the Irish heavyweights championship and was considered a possibility for the world's heavyweights title. While he was not successful in this ambition, prior to 1917 there were few Americans in his weight who could knock Madden down and in later years he was downed only a handful of the heavyweights opponents at one time or another.

PLAY LAST GAMES

THESE first days of March are sad for certain members of Big Four basketball teams, because they mark the final games that seniors on the four squad will participate in, as far as collegiate competition goes. In a week or two now it will all be over.

Outstanding among the Big Four seniors is Donald "Red" Martin of Ripon, captain of the 1930 Redmen and one of Ripon's most versatile athletes. His last game will be that against Carroll on March 7. Martin is the only senior on the Ripon team, and if he wins his "R" this spring in track, it will be his ninth letter. All other members of the Ripon team except Red-new Martin, "Red's" brother, are sophomores.

Carroll has but two seniors on the varsity team—Captain Tony Natalizio, guard, and Oscar Gluck, forward. Gluck, who comes from Neilsville, has played regularly for three years, and has contributed to the good playing of the Carroll quintet as having the outstanding stars of the Waukesha outfit—Vander Meulen and Hunkley.

Carl Thostenson, forward for Beloit, hails from Brodhead, and has been a consistently good player since his sophomore year at Beloit. He has been especially prominent since early in February this year when he took the famous Lou Bettino's place. In addition to Thostenson and Bettino, seniors on the Beloit squad are Captain Dick Warren, guard, and Paul Mutchow, a Beloit man, who has been playing center.

Lawrence will lose three players this season—Bud Pierce, guard, Slavik and Rasmussen. Pierce, however, will not finish his school work until next February, due to an injury which kept him from his studies for a semester. His strong floor work, coupled with consistent scoring power has marked Pierce as one of Lawrence's best. He is from Menasha, and has won his letter in football and tennis as well as basketball.

British Driver Seeks New Automobile Record

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK —(P)—Another carefree, smiling Englishman is in America today to challenge death and man-made speeds on the hard sands of Daytona Beach.

This time it is Kaye Don, crack British race driver, who will follow in the wheel ruts of his famous English predecessor, Major Sir Henry Segrave. Last March, on the Florida sands that have cost two American speed kings their lives, Segrave drove his Golden Arrow Sunbeam to the amazing record of 231.36 miles an hour.

Don, a good-natured veteran of world war flying days, will try to smash that record in a bigger, and he thinks, better Sunbeam, this one a mammoth seven ton creation in silver gray labeled the "Silver Bullet."

Don arrived in New York Tuesday on the Beaugraia.

In his party was his sister, Mrs. Roberts, Louis Contalen, a mite of a Frenchman who designs the racing mechanics. The party leaves Thursday for Florida where the test must be made under the American Automobile association auspices between March 15 and March 30.

Don is a bachelor of 36, tall, well set up, with sandy hair, a bristly mustache, blue eyes and a pair of deep dimples at the corners of his mouth. He dives putely for the sport of the thing, was the British champion in 1925 and 29, has never piloted a machine faster than 162 miles an hour, and flew a bomber in France during the world war. This is his first trip to America and his biggest thrill in evading wind tests, the cycle escort that whisked him from the deck to his hotel to the tune of wailing sirens and scattering traffic. He thinks that automobile speeds are not yet close to the limit.

WEIGHS 70 TONS

The Silver Bullet which has never been driven but has a theoretical speed of 260 miles an hour is a great improvement over Segrave's Golden Arrow in evading wind tests. Don said. "The new car is 50 feet long, weighs seven tons, has two stabilizing fins to keep it on the ground, and is equipped with silk tires 37 inches in diameter and lighted by covered with rubber. The tires are tested to last four minutes at a speed of 500 miles an hour.

The Bullet is powered by two 12-cylinder aviation engines in tandem, developing 2900 horsepower, three times as much as Segrave's Golden Arrow. It has three speeds, and should travel at the rate of 90 miles an hour in first, 170 in second and 260 in high. It looks like a silver lizard and is the biggest, huskiest machine that ever assaulted the record.

Don expects to get little thrill out of traveling at top speed if everything goes well.

"It's such a short burst, you know," he said. "Three miles to get rolling, a few seconds at the top and it's all over. No time for impressions. You can't plan for anything at that speed and you must control your course by instinct or it's too late. I imagine, though, that there is more real danger in competitive racing.

"But still," he said, with a broad grin, "it's remarkable how few people want to drive 260 miles an hour."

VIKES MAKE PLANS FOR MIDWEST TRACK FIELD MEET MAY 31

Spring Meeting of Coaches, Officials Will Also Be Held Here

PLANS have been launched for the annual Midwest conference track and field meet to be held at George A. Whitling field, on May 31, according to an announcement made this week by Fred Trezise, general chairman of the meet. Trezise also announced that the annual Midwest conference meeting will be held in the new gymnasium on the evening of May 30, the day before the annual races.

According to the general chairman, the annual affair has never been held under the auspices of Lawrence college before and every effort is being put forth to make it one of the biggest and most successful in the history of the league.

COMMITTEE HEADS NAMED

Details of the affairs of the day are now being arranged under the direction of committee chairman recently appointed by Trezise. The chairman appointed are as follows: meet committee, A. C. Denney and Eddie Kotal; memorial committee, Col. F. J. Schneller, a Lawrence college graduate and prominent athlete while here, and Marshall Graft, state commander of the American Legion, and a "W" man of the University of Wisconsin; program committee, Prof. E. W. Chippinger; entertainment committee, Coach Clarence Rasmussen, and publicity committee, Gordon Clapp; financial committee, R. J. Watts. Each chairman will appoint his assistants in the near future.

The meet will attract athletes from all the colleges in the Midwest conference, and will bring to Whitling field and Appleton, the greatest collection of track and field stars ever assembled here. Lawrence, champions of the state last season, will, judging from advance dope, be represented here by an aggregation of performers that will make a strong bid for the title. Blue and white track and field men are already holding workouts in Alexander gymnasium, preparatory to taking the outdoors when weather permits.

H. S. GIRLS PLAY IN CAGE TOURNAMENT

The second round of the basketball tournament being played by the Appleton high school girls has been completed. In the following list of games which were played the winning captain's name appears first.

Leone Stutz vs. Eleanor Kamba Mildred Schreier vs. Lucile Lem wanders Arlene Peterson vs. Lucile Lutz; Mildred Schreier vs. Genevieve Kronschnabel; Blanche Ryan vs. Effie Arps, Mildred Schreier vs. Leone Stutz, Effie Arps vs. Lucile Lutz.

The teams captained by Blanche Ryan and Arlene Peterson will play the championship game and a trophy will be presented to the winners. Last year the cup was won by Blue bell Ryan's team.

After this tournament an interclass basketball contest will be held. The date set for sophomore tryouts is March 11, for juniors, March 12 and that for seniors, March 13. Teams will be picked from the girls to represent the various classes in the tournament.

BABE RUTH PLAYS WITH ROOKIES IN PRACTICE GAME

St. Petersburg, Fla. —(P)—Manager Bob Shawkey of the New York Yankees does not intend to let the coming duel between Col. Jacob Ruppert and Babe Ruth over the question of the Bambino's salary overshadow other events in the Yankee training camp. Shawkey has decided the Yankees have progressed far enough to do a little real playing and scheduled the first day training practice game for today. And perhaps to impress the Babe with his present status in the camp, he assigned Ruth to the rookie team.

CONNIE MACK WILL CARRY SQUAD OF 25

Fort Myers, Fla. —(P)—A glance at Connie Mack's little black book reveals how the Philadelphia Athletics' boss will divide his 25-man squad this year. It indicated that most of the 11 rookies trying to break into the A's outfit will be disappointed. Mack plans to carry nine pitchers, three catchers, eight infielders and five outfielders, and 21 of the 25 players will be holdovers.

RED DEVILS ARE AWARDED DECISION OVER KIEL CAGERS

Victory Given Papermakers When Score Remains Tied After Overtime

NEENAH—Rosendale, Kimberly and Ripon, by virtue of victories Wednesday evening in the elimination games played at the high school gymnasium, entered the district tournament which will start next Thursday afternoon. With these three teams, the others to play in the district tournament will be Neenah, Menasha W. DePere, New London and probably Algoma. Paring the teams alphabetically, and presuming Algoma wins, Algoma will play W. DePere in the first game, Kimberly and Rosendale, Menasha and Ripon and Neenah and New London.

An audience of more than 800 people witnessed the elimination games in which Rosendale defeated Brillion by score of 493 and 29, Kimberly was given the choice by playing off a tie and when it was unbroken at the end of the extra period, the team having the most field goals was declared the winner. Kimberly had nine field goals and Kiel seven. Ripon defeated Berlin by a score of 13 and 10.

With the exception of the first game between Rosendale and Brillion, the other games were toss ups. There was no points difference in the score at anytime. Especially in the Kimberly-Kiel game, which was the best game of the evening's program, the score saw-sawed back and forth up to three minutes of the end when it went into a tie. Albers of Kimberly made the freethrow which tied the game. An extra five minutes when was played and with no change in score the game was given to Kimberly.

The Ripon-Berlin game lagged throughout the first half although both teams kept close to each other with a score of 5 and 4 in Berlin's favor at the half time. At the end of the third quarter Berlin was still leading by 8 and 5. Up to within the last minute Berlin was leading score 11 and 10 when Wallschlager of Ripon sunk one from half way down the floor, putting his team one basket in the lead as the game ended.

The Berlin-Ripon game was broadcast from the Neenah gymnasium over a leased wire to the Berlin gymnasium.

KIMBERLY CLUB, NIAGARA TO MEET

Two Mills Fives Will Battle at Clubhouse Gym Thursday Night

Kimberly—Thursday evening the Niagara Badgers will invade Kimberly to get revenge for an overtime defeat they received a short time ago when the Kimberly Club team beat them on their own floor.

The two teams have been rivals for years, playing home and home game and the fans at Kimberly won't forget the thrilling games which have featured clashes. Both teams are from villages where there are Kimberly-Clark plants and the club team is not entered in a tournament this year a win for Kimberly will make it mill champions. But if the Badgers win each team will have won one game and will have to share the honors.

The Club team will play the same line up that worked so well at Niagara. Stevens may start at center with Du Pont ready to relieve him. Koll, Gossens and Courchane will play the forward positions and Reetz and Busch will take them off of the bounding board.

DETROIT ROOKIES TO HURL IN FIRST GAME

Tampa, Fla. —(P)—Young pitchers in the Detroit Tigers' training camp will have an early chance to show what they can do against major league batters, according to plans of Manager Bucky Harris.

Harris, who has found nothing to complain about in showings made by his various charges to date, expects to try out two and possibly three recruit hurlers against the Boston Braves in the first exhibition here next Sunday and to continue giving the youngsters a chance in the rather heavy pre-season schedule.

THREE BADGERS
PLAY LAST CAGE
GAMES SATURDAY

Capt. Bud Foster, Matty
Matthuson and Maury
Farber Are Seniors

MADISON—When the University of Wisconsin basketball team takes the floor against Indiana Saturday night in the old varsity gymnasium, three of its members—Captain Harold (Bud) Foster, Carl Matthusen and Maury Farber—will be playing their last game for Wisconsin.

Though the Badgers can finish no higher than second now, Wisconsin's supporters find no fault with the season and are behind the team, and they will give Foster, Matthusen and Farber a big hand in their last game.

At the start of the season, Coach Deanwell said that if Foster played, Wisconsin would finish "one or two" and that he would have a team which, for cleverness, speed and ball handling, would be one of the best ever. The outcome of the Big Ten race proves that the little Badger mentor knows his basketball.

This week Deanwell is making his final effort to put the Badgers on the floor in the well-known "pink" for one more game. Wisconsin must defeat the Hoosiers Saturday night to be assured of an inviolate second place for the season. It has taken all of the little doctor's well known skill in handling and conditioning men to enable him to carry the present group of short, lightweight players through the season without "cracking."

Compelled, as he has been, to rely on a few stars, Foster, Matthusen and Farber, the men have stood up beautifully under the grind. The general feeling is that they will come through with another good game against Indiana, which they must do to win as the Hoosiers forced them into an overtime period at Bloomington.

Unless all signs fail, both Deanwell and Everett Dean, Hoosier coach, will stick to the quintets they have been using in recent games, though Indiana will take Elmer, who is 6 foot 4 inch back guard, who is said to be ineligible this semester.

CATHOLIC CAGERS IN MILWAUKEE TOURNNEY

Milwaukee—(P)—Two quintets from Milwaukee, and two from Prairie du Chien and Racine composed the second round field in the state Catholic tournament today.

They were: St. Catherine's of Racine; Campion, of Prairie du Chien; Jesmer, of Milwaukee, and Pio of St. Bonaventure, St. Catherine's defeated St. Bonaventure of Sturtevant yesterday, 23 to 14, in an easy game. Campion, a strong favorite, teamwile won from St. Mary's of Ishkosh, 19 to 12, Ireland's four baskets provided the winning margin.

St. John's Cathedral fell before Pio 20 to 9, in a hot game while Jesmer nosed out Marquette 12 to 0, in another tight contest.

WHITE SOX, GIANTS
TO PLAY SATURDAY

San Antonio, Tex.—(P)—Manager Jimmie Bush has just about decided on his Chicago White Sox will line up against the New York Giants in an opening game of the exhibition season Saturday.

Vic Fraser, recruit hurler, is to start for the ambitious Sox, with Ed Walsh, Jr., and Ted Lyons sharing the mound task. Irving Jeffries will be at third base, vice Willie Kamm who has not yet reported; Bill Hunter will be at shortstop, Clissell at second and Clancy at first. The outfield will start with Moore in left, Reynolds in center, and either Dave Larriss or Johnny Watwood in right, and Riddle will divide the catching.

STRETCH MURPHY TO PLAY PRO BASKETBALL

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—Charles Stretch' Murphy, lanky center on Purdue's Western conference basketball championship five, will engage in the professional branch of the sport.

Murphy, it has been announced as signed to play with Allen's Yellowjackets, and will join the team for the first time March 23.

MILWAUKEE BREWS
IN FIRST WORKOUT

Fort Pierce, Fla.—(P)—Everyone had a chance yesterday—rookies, veterans and onlookers—when the Milwaukee Brewers were through their first practice drill of the winter training season here. An infield workout, sprints and light batting practice formed the first day's menu.

BROOKLYN ROBINS
WILL HAVE SPANISH
PITCHER, CATCHER

Clearwater, Fla.—(P)—The Brooklyn Robins have discovered a battery that can get along without signals unless some undiscovered No. 10 Berg turns up in the National league. With ancient Adolfo Lopez pitching and young Alfonso Lopez catching, the instructions can be passed in their native Spanish with no one the wiser. They also may be able to get in a few words about the way the umpire is calling 'em without leaving the field.

Laque dropped into the Robin camp, a trifle overweight but with most of his old time pitching form after a winter of baseball in Havana.

CONSUMER PAYING MUCH LESS TODAY FOR COMMODITIES

Prices Have Dropped so Gradually, However, That Decrease Is Not Noticed

EDITOR'S NOTE: The cost of living is again a live subject of discussion around the nation's dinner tables. The consumer asks: Have retail prices come down relatively as fast as the quotations in staple raw commodities in the markets of the world? John A. Crone, special financial writer for the Post-Crescent, gives the answer to this and other questions in the following dispatch.

BY JOHN A. CRONE
Copyright, 1934, by Cons. Press
New York. With the bulls and bears battling in the wheat pit and around the cotton ring, the decline in commodity prices and consequently in the cost of living naturally is becoming as lively a topic of conversation as baseball prospects, golf scores, and the heavyweight championships.

Although 35 out of 39 staple world commodities or the raw or crude class show declines when compared with either a year ago or last September, the retail prices of such articles have come down, in many instances, so gradually that the ultimate consumer has barely noticed the reduction.

STAPLE ITEMS DOWN
Out where the west begins the prices of every-day table necessities are moving lower. This trend perhaps has not been noticed because, like in the east or far west or south, reductions have been made at the rate of one or two cents at a time. In some commodities there have been five price reductions since last October.

"Consumers are receiving the full benefit of the decline in commodity prices," William H. Albers, president of the second largest grocery chain in the world, said today, in commenting on the decline in the cost of living. "Consumers are taking full advantage of those staple items which have been reduced most in price. This sort of buying enables consumers to purchase the most volume for their money."

The biggest reductions in the middle west have taken place in butter, which is down 12 cents a pound since Oct. 1, 1933; eggs, which are 20 cents a dozen lower, and coffee, which is down 12 cents a pound.

The percentage of declines in retail prices on some of the leading staples, noted by Mr. Albers since Oct. 1 follows: dried beans 23 per cent; butter 20 per cent, eggs 40 per

Appleton Students Are Listed Among Honor Freshmen At Lawrence College

LEVEN among the first year students at Lawrence college this year are sons or daughters of Lawrence graduates. Four states are represented, and in three cases both the father and mother are graduates. Three Appleton students are included in the group.

Ten of these first year students appear above. Left to right, they are: seated, Helen Witherbee, daughter of Oliver D. Witherbee, '03, and Lillian Gilbertson Witherbee, '05, of Galesville; June Linderman, daughter of Frances Nimitz (Mrs. John) Linderman, '04, of Waukegan, Ill.; Erwin Wenberg, son of Edna Grover, (Mrs. J. Some canned fruits and vegetables are a little higher, however, than a year ago. These include California products which were hit by the early frost last year. In this line are fancy fruits and vegetables. Standard quality goods, such as corn, peas and tomatoes, are a trifle lower, but extra fancy brands of these vegetables as well as asparagus and similar fancy goods are somewhat higher.

Leading department stores, like the chain organizations, have been quick to reduce grocery quotations. Thus a survey of leading department stores here shows a cut of one cent

HARDEST TEACHING YEAR IS FIRST YEAR

Such Is Finding of University of Wisconsin Service Bureau

Madison —(P)—The first year of teaching is the hardest.

This is the finding of Prof. A. S. Barr and Miss Mabel Rudisell, of the University of Wisconsin, who have recently completed a study of teacher graduates of 1927 and 1928. They were working in the supervisory service bureau of the University Institute for Training of Teachers. According to their findings, the first year teachers and the greatest difficulty in control over pupils, provision for individual differences, presentation of subject matter, teacher and pupil participation in recitation, making assignments, and adjustment by the teacher to the classroom situation.

They report that more teachers fail during their first year of experience than at any other time. There also is a high "teacher mortality" rate the first two weeks, the investigators add.

Under what is known as the "Wisconsin plan," the university division of the institute for Training of Teachers continues the training of its teacher-graduates for two years after they leave the university. Among its projects are a correspondence service for those in the field who seek assistance; visitations on request; a bulletin service; various deals with teaching projects, various school problems, and the supervision of instruction, and a research service in training teachers in service.

Officials have been able to lay no rule on the results of the follow-up system. They say they have not evaluated the visits to teachers, but simply are teacher-helpers. The supervisors are specialists in teacher-training and in the subject taught.

CHAMBER MEMBERS INVITED TO DINNER

Members of the chamber of commerce have been invited to attend a dinner meeting to be given by the Appleton Woman's club at 6:30 Wednesday evening, March 13, at Conway hotel in observance of National Business and Professional Women's week, according to Kenneth Corbett, chamber secretary. Dr. Irving Maurer, president of Beloit college, will be the principal speaker.

FIVE FOOD POISONING CASES FOUND IN CITY

Four cases of food poisoning, 12 of pneumonia, six of measles and five of mumps came under the supervision of Miss Marie Karasseboom, city nurse, during February, according to her report. Other illnesses investigated by the nurse included five colds, four cases of tuberculosis, two of mental disease, 22 of diabetes, and five of cardiac disturbances. Three surgical, two orthopedic and four maternity cases were listed on the report.

Twenty-one persons were given child welfare service, 17 social service, and mothers' pensions were obtained for two mothers. Five patients were accompanied to the hospital or a doctor's office.

Miss Karasseboom held 23 office interviews, made 51 phone calls, and sent out 12 letters and pamphlets.

GET BLANKS FOR WAR MOTHER'S PASSPORTS

Blanks have been received by Sydney M. Shannon, clerk of courts, from the United States War department for Outagamie-co war mothers and widows, who are to be invited to make a pilgrimage to France to visit the graves of their sons or husbands, to make applications for passports. The passports are to be issued to the mothers without any charge and the special forms are needed to make the applications. Mr. Shannon also received a supply of blanks for applications for special pilgrimage travel documents for mothers or widows who are aliens. Aliens Ruins which are well preserved show that the city was destroyed at least twice. Objects of art tend to indicate that the city was thriving during the bronze age.

Secret Discovered in the Mountains

GALESVILLE, FLORIDA.—Until recently, breakfast-time meant nothing but trouble for Mrs. Warren Cushing, of this town. Her children refused the nourishing foods set before them, and all efforts to tempt their appetites failed. The family physician, upon being consulted, advised mountain air as an appetizer. The trip that followed solved Mrs. Cushing's difficulty in a manner that no one anticipated. It was not only the invigorating air that restored her children's appetites, but a secret which Mrs. Cushing discovered in the mountains. What this secret was is related below:

"As a mother of three children, I had read the usual literature on 'Child Feeding' and kindred subjects, and tried to apply the knowledge. But be the reason what it may, there was always trouble about breakfast. It was an ordeal that I dreaded; efforts to tempt the appetites and send the children to school properly nourished were futile. My neighbors seemed equally at sea.

"The Magic Cup"
"Our doctor said to take the children to the mountains, and little did he realize that there I would find the solution of my problem—not in the change of altitude, but in the cottage next door. A family there had such rosy-cheeked happy children that I lost no time in making their acquaintance. One day I begged the mother to disclose her magic—for so it seemed to me. She served me a cup of Instant Postum made with milk for her answer.

"From that day my troubles vanished. The children not only enjoy their Postum but eat more of other foods. They leave for school with the proper amount of nourishment. 'My neighbors, upon my return, were invited in to drink the 'Magic Cup.' Today we all agree that Instant Postum made with milk is the best hot drink for boys and girls. Try this 'Magic' yourself!

So many mothers are confronted by the same problem that baffled Mrs. Cushing—the problem of seeing that their children get milk in nourishing quantities. For so many children simply do not like milk, and no possible scolding or coaxing will make them like it. But serve Instant Postum made with milk—then see how the trouble smooths itself out! In this wonderful drink, the children get the body-building milk they need, plus the wholesomeness of roasted whole wheat and bran from which Instant Postum is made. The flavor is so delightful, so delicious, that children naturally love it—even children who do not like milk alone. And because it's hot, and a "grown-up" drink, it holds an appeal that ordinary milk could never offer. This drink helps you in another way, too—it saves you time! You can make the drink in a few seconds. Just put a teaspoonful of Instant Postum in a cup, fill with hot (not boiled) milk, sweeten to taste—and the drink is ready! Besides Instant Postum made with milk, your grocer has Postum Cereal, the kind you boil. Both kinds cost less than most other mealtime drinks—only one-half cent a cup. Order today!

COURT MAY DECIDE IF LIQUOR BUYER CAN BE PROSECUTED

Prohibition's Biggest Question May Be Answered Soon in Washington

Washington (AP)—Prohibition's big question—can a buyer of liquor be prosecuted?—may be answered here soon.

The case of the United States of America vs. John Wayland is the medium.

Wayland is charged with purchasing liquor and will be given a jury trial in police court.

Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition, says a conviction would serve the same and for future action against liquor buyers as passage of the much discussed Sheppard bill.

The measure, introduced by Senator Sheppard of Texas, seeks to amend the Volstead law to apply also to liquor buyers.

David A. Hart, assistant United States district attorney, who will prosecute the Wayland case, says it is "without loopholes either as to legal technicalities or evidence."

Hart holds the Volstead law does specifically prescribe punishment for the individual buyer of liquor.

He is prosecuting Wayland under section 6 of title 2 of the act which reads in part: "No one shall manufacture, sell, purchase, transport, or prescribe any liquor without first obtaining a permit from the commissioner so to do."

The charge against Wayland reads: "Did then and there unlaw-

Your Income Tax

No. 23
Taxpayers who make casual sales of personal property for a price exceeding $1,000, or sell real property, on the deferred-payment plan, may use the installment method when computing the tax on the profits derived from such sales if the initial payments made during the year do not exceed 40 per cent of the selling price.

Persons who elect to use this method pay each year only the tax on the proportion of the installment payments received during the year which represents a profit, instead of paying the tax on the total profit to be realized. To illustrate, a taxpayer sells a piece of real estate in 1929 for $9,000 which cost him $6,000, and the purchaser agrees to pay $3,000 each year. In this case the tax on the profit of $3,000 could spread over the three years; that is, one-third of each installment payment of $3,000, or $1,000 would be taxable the year received.

fully purchase a certain intoxicating liquor; to wit, whisky."

The penalizing section in the case, Hart explains, is section 29 of the Volstead act which prescribes a penalty of not more than $500. It is prepared to carry the case as far as he can.

Wayland, 27, from Clarendon, Va., when arraigned in police court, was granted a jury trial upon his demand for it and released in $1,000 bail on dual charges of purchase and possession of liquor.

Talks To Parents

DON'T ARGUE
BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE

A friend of the family had sent an enormous box of delicious candy. It stood on the living room table and Timothy, aged five, refused to be satisfied with his allotment of two pieces. He stood at his mother's elbow.

"Can I have another piece, just one more?"

"You've had enough. No more now until after supper."

"But that's not fair. You've eaten a whole lot and I've only had two."

"Yes, but I'm big and it won't hurt me, and you know that if you eat too much candy you get sick. Don't you remember how sick you were after Christmas?"

"But I won't get sick this time

Please give me just one more, just one."

"I said no, and I mean it. Now don't talk to me any more."

But Timothy went right on teasing and his mother kept on trying to answer him, until at last, exasperated beyond endurance, she turned and slapped him sharply. He stopped then.

Timothy's mother was not an unthinking woman, but she had permitted herself to become involved in an argument and she had reached the limit of her endurance.

The only way of preventing such situations is, of course, to forestall them. Once you have decided to forbid something do not permit yourself to become involved in controversy. Explain once, but don't argue.

If the child continues to tease for what he wants, tell him he is making a nuisance of himself and quietly send him to his room until he is ready to behave. Forestall the situation which is sure to make someone lose his temper. Don't argue.

KENNEL LICENSE IS ISSUED BY TREASURER

The first kennel license of the year was granted to Lute Wooden, W. Commercial-st., by Fred Bachman, city treasurer, Tuesday. A kennel license, which costs $20, permits the holder to keep as many as 25 dogs for the one license fee. Mr. Wooden now has 13 beagle hounds, which he will transport to the north sometime this month to begin their hunting training.

To date 676 dog licenses have been issued by the city treasurer.

Who makes out the SPECIFICATIONS for YOUR tires?

GOODYEAR PATHFINDERS

are built to specifications that insure positive quality. Yet Goodyear's mass production and Gibson's volume selling makes them low priced.

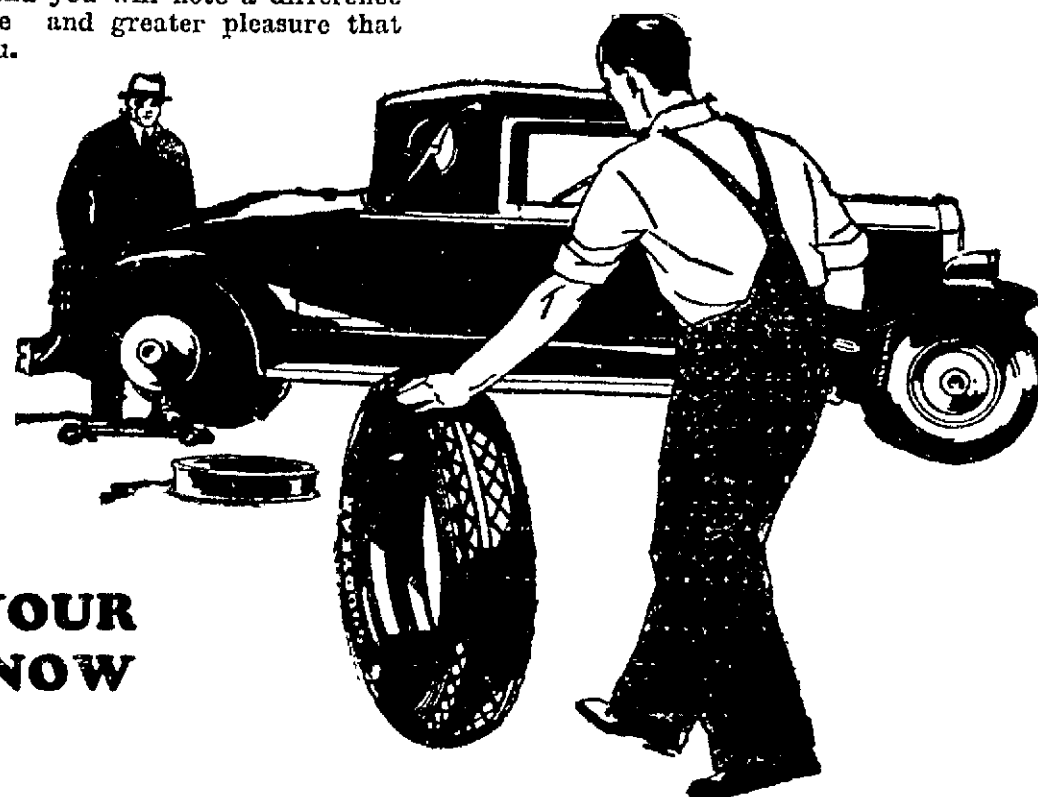

Did you ever think that there were such things as "specifications" in the making of tires? Yes, sir, there are — and those specifications contain the full story of the quality of the tire you get! A mere change of a few words or figures means the difference between a tire "FOR A PRICE" — or a TIRE THAT WILL GIVE YOU THE GREATEST VALUE.

Who makes up the specifications for YOUR tires? Is it someone who is merely interested in the price appeal that they can shout to your ears? Or is it a reputable manufacturer — like Goodyear — which has grown to be the world's largest tire maker because of the genuine value that the public has found in Goodyear tires.

The public prefers Goodyears nearly 2 to 1. Isn't that proof of SPECIFICATIONS that SAFEGUARD YOU?

GIBSON STATIONS are tire headquarters

All sizes and all types — just the tires for your car. At Gibson's you get honest recommendations, honest quality, and generous service. Make Gibson's YOUR tire headquarters and you will note a difference in the greater mileage and greater pleasure that Gibson Service brings you.

Kaukauna May Ask Government For New Postoffice

Mayor to Recommend That Council Make Request of Uncle Sam

Kaukauna—Kaukauna may ask the government to build a new postoffice here, according to Mayor W. C. Sullivan. He indicated that the matter may be taken up at the next meeting of the common council. If a new postoffice is granted it probably would be built next year at a cost of about $35,000, it is expected. This is the approximate cost of post office buildings being erected in cities of this size, according to the mayor.

The postoffice now is located in the municipal building, where it has been for about eight years. Many cities that were on the list for consideration before Kaukauna have been taken care of and there is a good chance for Kaukauna to receive a new building, the mayor believes.

The government's lease on the utility building for the postoffice will expire next February. If the city is going to request a new building it ought to be done soon, the mayor pointed out. The new postoffice, if allowed, probably would be near its present site so that the new building would be erected on the island near the municipal building.

If the postoffice is removed from the municipal building the space would be used for an office by the utility department, and some space might be rented.

HARDWOOD GROUP FILES BRIEF IN RAILROAD CASE

Charges That Rates on Lumber and Products Are Unreasonable

BY RUBY BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—The Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturers' association has filed with the Interstate Commerce commission a brief in support of its complaint against the Ann Arbor railroad, charging that the rates on lumber and its products from Wisconsin and Minnesota points are unreasonable and unjust. The railroad has also filed a brief in defense of its side of the argument.

In addition to the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood association, an unincorporated organization of Oshkosh, Wis., with plants and offices in Wisconsin and in the upper peninsula of Michigan, the other complainants are the Birch Club of Chicago made up of manufacturers and producers of veneer and built-up wood and the Oshkosh Traffic association, composed of manufacturers of building woodwork with factories and places of business at Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, and Merrill, Wis.

The complainants, who assert that they produce 90 per cent of the wood output of their territory, attack the railroad rates on lumber from Wisconsin and Minnesota points to central freight territory and ask reasonable rates for the future. They say that they have great difficulty in marketing their products in central territory, and charge that the rates to central territory destinations, considering both the distance and transportation conditions, are higher than to any other destination territory in the country.

The complainants charge that differences between rates from Wausau, Wis., to central territory and to western trunk line territory are as high as 11.5 cents for the same distance. The rate from Wausau to Reed City, Mich., is 25 cents and the distance is 240 miles, while the rate from Wausau to Michigan City, Ind., a distance of 321 miles is only 23 cents. The grouping is so involved that destinations within a few miles of each other may be in 25 cents groups, 23 cents groups or 29 cents groups. The complainants charge that the railroad can give no reason for such grouping. Practically the same carriers run to all of the destinations. The railroad, in its brief, claims that the commission has in the past and particularly in the Wisconsin rate case, approved the method of rate making to and from Wisconsin on the combination basis, changing rates for Madison, LaCrosse, Stoughton, Beloit, Janesville, Watertown and other southern Wisconsin cities. Only because undue prejudice in favor of northern Illinois was proved.

The railroad finds the great rise in rates after Chicago justified because of water competition which must be met and also because of the heavy terminal expense in shipping through Chicago.

The railroad further states that the economic conditions and not to freight rates. They assert that there has been a steady decline in the movement of lumber from Wisconsin to all territory, not just central freight association territory, in the last 10 years. Lumber production in Wisconsin has declined also as witnessed by the fact that 40 sawmills were in operation at Oshkosh in 1920 and only one now. The railroad says that Wisconsin manufacturers are compelled to get Pacific coast lumber for their needs, as the Wisconsin forests are so depleted, and adds that this decline in lumber production is general throughout the country.

The railroad sees no reason for a change in rates and asks that the complaint be dismissed.

HELICOPTER ALMOST SET FOR TEST FLIGHT

Special Dispatch to the Post-Crescent

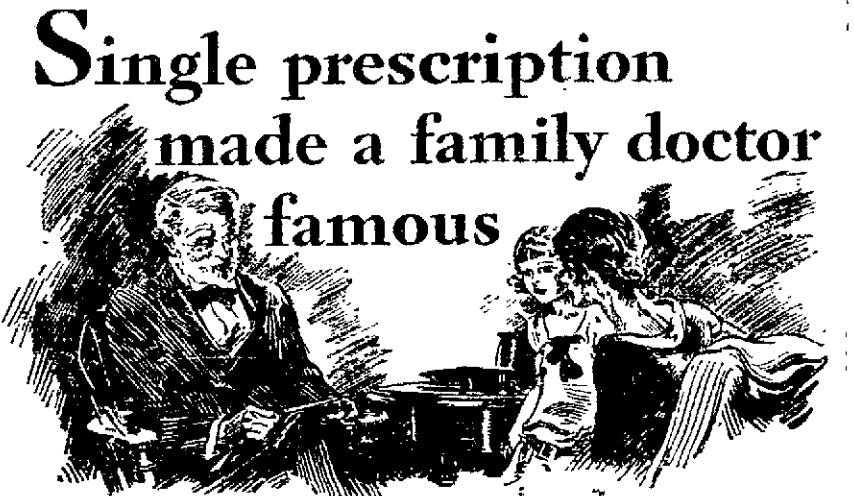

Garden City, L. I. —(C.P.A.)—The helicopter being developed in the Curtis experimental plant here is almost ready to be test flown, it was learned reliably today. The strange-looking craft, upon which engineering experts have been working for almost two years, rapidly is being assembled in the aircraft laboratory. This four-winged bird, designed to rise perpendicularly from the ground, will be taken to a nearby airport for its initial flight. The craft is equipped with the coordinated controls which Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Wright aeronautical corporation, says will soon be installed in all planes, making them practically fool-proof.

Single prescription made a family doctor famous

SELDOM has any single act been of greater benefit to mankind than the one which Dr. Caldwell performed back in 1885 when he wrote the prescription which has carried his fame to the four corners of the earth.

Over and over, Dr. Caldwell wrote this prescription as he found men, women, and children suffering from those common symptoms of constipation, such as coated tongue, bad breath, headaches, gas, nausea, biliousness, poor appetite, or lack of energy, etc. And it invariably relieved these symptoms so much more pleasantly, so much quicker than other things, that his patients simply had to tell other people about it.

The demand for this prescription grew so fast that by 1888 Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it put up ready for use and supply drug stores with it. Today you can get the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, at all drug stores.

When you or your children suffer from any of the symptoms of constipation, it will pay you to remember this safe, pleasant-tasting, effective laxative; made only from herbs and other pure ingredients; a real corrective for constipation. A doctor's 47-year experience behind this formula!

A QUESTION OF HONOR

by Ruth Cross

CHAPTER 17 UNMARKED TRAILS

IT was not unexpected that a woman with the inherent cleverness that Anne possessed would manage to emerge unscathed from the storm that followed her mountain escapade.

This she did by assuming the role of the injured party and effecting a compromise with Morse and her Aunt Emily. She consented to carry a small revolver and never go far from the Lodge alone.

Tactfully she pledged herself to avoid the trail to the "hermit's hut" but that was hardly necessary after her experience with the two women-haters wild horses could not have dragged her in that direction.

She went now almost daily into the mountains—explored every seductive trail and by pathing grew bolder and struck out where there were no trails at all—forgetting, it must be confessed, her promise to keep within the vicinity of the Lodge.

Some days, Anne took along a bite of lunch which Jarvis put up for her and spent the whole day in the woods. Morse was seldom at the Lodge any more, save in the evenings, and often he and Douglas were away for several days at a time.

Anne was content, but Mrs. Wilmot chafed restively under the delay and the threats of constantly more importunate creditors, and blamed Anne. The girl took the blame in silence. She would be glad enough when their tiresome financial matters were settled, but not even that pleasing prospect could rouse her to any enthusiasm or regard for Leon Morse.

When she spent hours stretched flat on a bed of moss and pine needles. Under the spell of the mountains she found she could look at her life with some measure of wholeness and detachment. She discovered surprising things; not the least, that she could feel such keen pleasure in very simple things.

Of Glenn and all that had passed between them, she deliberately set herself not to think, but unbidden memories started her fingling sometimes with shame and rage; occasionally perhaps with something that was neither. The latter she deemed it safer not to examine into, but the mood came over her at times so powerfully that she seemed on the verge of being swept away on some rushing mountain torrent.

Two weeks from the day of her ill-fated journey to Glenn's cabin, she set out on a new and hitherto unexplored trail. She tramped along rapidly, absorbed in her own fancies, turning off at every skittish little bush that waved an alluring hand at her. She stopped for lunch beside a tiny, ice-cold mountain stream and after a nap resumed walking.

At mid-afternoon, she came to an abrupt halt. For the first time in her ramblings she knew that she was lost. First humiliation to a budding mountaineer! She looked about her, intensely annoyed. There was not one landmark to go by. She frowned at her predicament and finally sat down on a log.

She drew out a small volume from her knapsack, "The Woodcraft Manual," and examined its pages.

"The first thing to do is to set up a tree or other high lookout and seek for some landmark near the camp," she read, and smiled wryly as she noted the nearest branches of the pine under which she was sitting were certainly not less than 50 feet from the ground.

Chin in palm, she concentrated her entire attention on the book. There was a little frown between her brows. Her lips were set in a port smote the air. The earth trembled under her feet.

She jumped up quickly, recalling the night of the dance and the way the floor had rocked. She remembered hearing Douglas say that Glenn's workmen were blasting out the canal ways for the irrigation system. She turned and walked rapidly in the opposite direction from the sound. Better anything than the least chance of encountering him!

But one pine tree was so exactly like another, the slope of the ground so uniform, that she found it impossible to keep her bearings. Before she realized it, she had described a perfect semi-circle. She brought up abruptly less than 10 feet from a jagged pit which still reeked from blasting. In the pit, two men were standing up to their waists. At a distance of a dozen yards or so, a group of workmen were preparing to fire another fuse.

The two men in the pit were bending absently over some bits of the loosened rock, which the taller of the two was examining through a microscope. When they looked up and saw Anne, they both started—almost guiltily. The man with the microscope crammed the instrument and the specimens of rock hastily into his pocket, muttered something to his companion and cleared the excavation in a single bound. It was Glenn.

His companion was Sheb who stood transfixed. One glance and Anne fled.

"Miss Wilmot!" Glenn called but Anne ignored it. "Miss Wilmot!" Anne heard a voice which she sensed was almost immediately behind her.

Again it was repeated as an entrance, but Anne only walked faster, but her pursuer followed. There was no sign of a trail but Anne was resolute. Anything was better than facing Glenn again.

"Of course you know you're going in the opposite direction to the Lodge!" Glenn asked.

Anne cast a puzzled glance at the sun and as she did so, stumbled into a tangle of brush and by that left its mark on her pink cheek. Her hair disentangled her hair. When she was free, Anne spoke for the first time and her face was expressionless, her mouth set in a tight, firm line. "If you will kindly tell me which is the direction to the Lodge I need not trouble you to accompany me farther."

Glenn barred her path and showed no signs of moving. "Not just yet. I'm going to attend to those scratches. Besides—I want to talk to you a minute or so. It wasn't fair, you know, not to read my letter."

Anne's uncovered cheek flamed; her eyes grew murky with anger. "Will you let me pass?" She turned recklessly through the brambles but Glenn caught her shoulders and wheeled her around.

"You can't go that way," he said, with a trace of a smile. "In fact, you can't go at all until I say the word."

LABOR CONDITION
TO IMPROVE SOON,
LEADERS BELIEVE

Unemployment, However, Is Not as Good as Employers Would Indicate

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright 1930, by Cons. Press
Washington — Employment obviously is not as good as labor leaders, employers and statisticians would like to have it seem, but they have ceased to "view this with alarm."
Labor leaders, making headquarters here, anticipate a gradual increase during the next month with a real resumption of activity beginning April 1. Officials of the American Federation of Labor say that 23 per cent of the organized workers were out of work in February. That means 22 per cent of approximately 12,000,000 workers.

These leaders say also that the building trades, the highest paid labor in the world, are the most seriously involved, but the F. F. of L.
notes also that March always brings some improvement while seasonal recovery is due in April.
It is asserted that appeals for aid through charity are increasing. On the other hand, it is acknowledged on all sides that industrial recession has been checked and confidence is gaining. This undoubtedly is due to the activities of the steel and automobile industries. The building trades are the last to feel the increased activity.

MANY BLAME BANKS

Many labor leaders have no hesitancy in fixing the blame for the labor situation on the banks. They say that the banks are full of money, but that the financiers will not loan it for construction purposes. They point significantly to Westchester co., New York, which probably contains inhabitants of more wealth than any similar subdivision in the world, and say that the banks will not loan more than 40 per cent on mortgages covering 100 per cent valuation.

They point to this as substantiating the fact that recovery is not yet general. Federal reserve and treasury officials, on the other hand, say this is simply a guarding against ill advised speculative building.

The real truth of the matter is that no one knows the actual unemployment situation. Senator Wagner, Dem., of New York in a speech just delivered in the senate, cited the figures by the department of labor that at this time in 1928 unemployment totaled 1,874,050. This,
of course, includes the number wilfully unemployed. Since 1928 there have been added some 4,000,000

Sez Hugh:

THE ICE MAKES IT HARD TO LEARN—WHEN YOU FALL FOR SKATING!

Workers to the total available in the country. The figures do not mean that 1,800,000 workers were unemployed because they could not find jobs.

Personally the writer believes that there are approximately 4,000,000 men out of work in this country
throughout the normal year, either from choice or because they are changing locations or employment.
This trend has grown enormously in late years because nearly every artisan has a car and can go wherever employment is more promising. He no longer sits down and waits for a job in his own town.

There is pressure on capitol hill to take some action to learn definitely how the employment situation stands. Various estimators look at the situation from different viewpoints. But at least all seem agreed

FINISH PLANS FOR NEW SUPER-STATION

Firestone Tire Co. to Erect
New Building on Old Lieth-en Site

Construction work on the new Firestone Tire company's super-service station to be erected at the northwest corner of W. Collegeave and N. Richmond-st will get underway within the next few weeks, it was announced Wednesday by officials of the company.

Sketches and architectural plans are virtually completed. The site on which the new station will be erected, including a warehouse and departments for the various kinds of service, is 120 feet wide and 148 feet long.

The new station, which is to feature every phase of automobile repairing and servicing, will be one of the few of its kind in the state.

William Fultz, 22, both of Elton, were held in jail here Wednesday on charges of holding up a store at Choate, near here, last night.

that the situation is showing betterment.

Most workers who are in line subject to seasonal dullness are accustomed to being carried by their bankers and their merchants and such are being carried now. The time during which they must continue to seek this aid, however, is shortening.

As Hoover's Mountain School Opened

Wondering, eager and somewhat awe-struck, children from the Blue Ridge mountains are pictured above at the opening of the community school, sponsored by President and Mrs. Hoover near Dark Hollow, Va.
Miss Catherine Vest, the teacher, a mountain girl from Yosemite, Ky., is shown in the background. In the front seat is Ray Burraker, whose visit to Hoover's nearby summer camp with a possum aroused the president's interest in the mountaineer's children and led to plans for the school.

FAVOR SINGLE WOMEN

London—The old question as to whether or not married women should work has been definitely answered

here. Nearly 7,000 women employed as clerks in the British service recently voted on this question. The returns were for the negative side

by a large majority. Some contended that the working married woman kept single women with no other means of support out of a job.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS
DEBATE ON CHAIN STORE

Four senior high school students participated in a debate on the question, Resolved, that the chain store is a detriment to the community, the state and the nation.
Edward Weismiller and Richard Balliet supported the affirmative and Lawrence Oosterhaus and Robert Kruekenburg the negative. The debate was held during Orlando

Skinrud's first hour class and the students who were judges, voted the decision to the negative by a vote of 17-8.

Happy Woman Tells How She Lost 19 Pounds of Fat In 27 Days

During October a woman in Montana wrote—"My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat—Kruschen is all you claim for it—I feel better than I have for years."

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat."—Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach,
liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts are carried to every organ, gland, nerve lowed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin,
